'Intelligent' traffic plan gets rethink

By Harry Walton
hdswalton@yahoo.co.uk

CRUCIAL changes are being considered to alter parts of Weymouth's controversial new transport system.

Millions of pounds were spent ripping out roundabouts and installing traffic lights in their place ahead of the 2012 Olympics, but the so-called "intelligent" new system has been widely criticised.

Now Weymouth is just days away from an independent safety and operational survey of the system by Traffic Management Systems of Warwick which will flag up any concerns and possible improvements for Dorset County Council to take action on.

The survey will look at the whole of the transport package system including police accident records from July 2011-July 2014, visiting its various sites to see if safety can be improved.

A thorn in the side of motorists has been the Boot Hill-Asda junction, but DCC highway improvements' principal engineer Paul Hannam said the layout had been affected by the need to continue serving the fire station there which has since closed.

The North Quay bus lane had been installed to meet then service requirements, but most bus services are now rerouted along Westwey Road and North Quay is barely used, so one idea being considered is to remove the bus lane and go back to a single lane two-way system.

But by far the biggest possible changes are being considered for the junction itself which could see the removal of a small additional island in its centre.

Other changes to improve traffic flow could include altering lane structure so traffic coming down Westwey Road to the junction will face one lane to turn left only along North Quay, a second central lane to channel traffic up Boot Hill or in to a right-turn lane for Chickerell Road and a third lane allowing traffic to turn right across the junction for Asda.

Mr Hannam said: "We have ideas and we will be seeing if the survey confirms them."

DEATH NOTICE

Moore, Kathleen (Kit), aged 79 years died at home on Monday 29th September surrounded by her loving family, after a short illness very bravely fought.
Loving wife of Bill, dear Mum to Tony, Bev and Wendy, Mother-in-law to Bev, John and Pete and loving Granny to George and Jemma, Josh, Tommie and Charlie.
Will be sadly missed by all her family and friends.
Funeral service to be held at Shute Parish Church on Wednesday 15th October at 2pm, followed by interment in Churchyard.
Family flowers only, donations if desired to Cancer Research or RSPCA.
C/O J.F.Clarke & Son, Maryknoll, Lyme Street, Axminster EX13 5AU or at the service.

LYME Regis resident David Sarson originally came from Reading in Berkshire and moved to the town nine years ago, having visited his father many times and fallen in love with the seaside town.

David lives with his wife Erica. They have three children and three gradchildren.

He is a member of the Rotary Club of Lyme Regis and the Royal Voluntary Service

● WHAT did you do before retirement?
Before I retired I spent most of my working career in sales and marketing, but the last 10 years I was self-employed as a franchisee in computer CD Roms and, ultimately, in book sales.

● HOW did you become involved with the Rotary Club?
I became involved in the Rotary Club of Lyme Regis only 18 months ago. I was introduced to the club by an existing member.

● WHAT do you enjoy about being a member?
I enjoy the comradery, we are like an extended family or a good oiled working team. I am constantly meeting different people in all walks of life and, of course, it's very self satisfying when you meet your challenge of raising money for the many charities, both home and overseas. I am forever taken back by people's generosity.

● DO you have any upcoming Rotary events?
We have three main events in our calendar for the next four months; Christmas collections in Lyme Regis and Charmouth, together with our annual Carols Around the Christmas Tree in Lyme Regis for Children's Hospice South West; The Formidable Lyme Lunge on January 1st for Help The Heroes and other Rotary charities; and a soup and ploughman's meal at the Alexandra Hotel on February 2nd for the charity Water Survival Box.

● HOW did you become involved with the Royal Voluntary Service?
I became involved with the Royal Voluntary Service's Befriending Scheme almost a year ago, initially through Lyme Regis Development Trust.

● WHAT is your role within the service?
I act as a volunteer co-ordinator for the charity, bringing volunteers and referrals together, covering Lyme Regis and Bridport areas. It is a very rewarding job, albeit challenging.

● HOW would you encourage others to volunteer?
Our volunteers not only transform the lives of older people, it can change their own lives too. A couple of hours of volunteering makes you feel great, you meet some of the most interesting people in your own neighbourhood, building friendships and enjoying each others company.

● ARE you a member of any other local organisations?
I am captain of Charmouth Bowls Club and also help out at the community Lyme lunches and am a member of the University of the Third Age. I also help Erica on our allotment.

● WHAT do you like about Lyme Regis?
Lyme Regis is a beautiful town and we are also lucky enough to have in my view one of the best coastlines in the South West. The people of Lyme are very friendly and we have so much to offer with regards to choice and facilities in the town.

● WHAT do you think it's missing?
I do think perhaps that more people should be involved in their own community. Lyme Regis has so much to offer.

WHAT would you do if you won the Lottery?
If I won the Lottery I would give a little monetary assistance to those Lyme groups who, at this present moment, are suffering through lack of funds, and then perhaps go on a short cruise if I get time!

Traffic is like 'Whacky Races'

Councillor Christine James said she welcomed the survey and said: "It will help answer some of the criticism which has been levelled at the new traffic system. It just may not be the answer people want.

"I personally like the idea of a single lane reserved for traffic turning left along North Quay at the Boot Hill junction. That is common sense and something which was suggested a while back.

"And it also makes sense to remove the bus lane if buses are no longer using that route in anything like the numbers they used to be. The lane could even be considered as extra parking spaces."

She added that one aspect of the new system she hoped the survey would look into was the two-lane exit from junctions which merge into one lane, something police have warned is creating "a racetrack mentality" with both lanes of drivers vying to get to the single lane first.

She said: "It is a bit of a Wacky Races mentality and drivers should be aware of two things – firstly that it is a 30mph limit and secondly that the inside lane has no legal requirement to let outside lane drivers in although I would like to think that the three 'Cs' apply with carefulness, courtesy and consideration. It is better to get there five minutes late in this life than 25 years early in the next!

"Hopefully the county council will consult with Weymouth and Portland via myself as transport spokesman, to ensure anything the survey does suggest needs doing gets a local voice to help with it."

500 homes plan for Curtis Fields

By Harry Walton
hdswalton@yahoo.co.uk

A HUGE application for another five hundred homes has been put in for the controversial Markham and Little Francis site in Weymouth.

Campaigners recently lost their battle to retain Town Green status for part of the land, also known as Curtis Fields, where developer Betterment Properties has since had permission granted for up to 180 homes, a store and office unit.

Now Betterment, which owns the land, has put in a second application for outline planning permission to build 500 more homes on a 19-hectare (47-acre) site in three phases.

If their scheme is granted permission then it will include 325 homes with another 175 proposed for social rented housing

Betterment says the giant development will be mainly accessed from Chickerell Road through its already approved development but they do want a second access point for vehicles from Lanehouse Rocks Road and a third via Markham Avenue although this would only serve part of the proposed development.

Among documents already submitted to the council is one from Community Protection which notes: "The proposed development is located near a noise sensitive area and therefore is likely to have significant effects upon the environment and residents."

One of those residents, Michael Daniel, of nearby Hardy Avenue condemned the proposal and said the development wasn't needed and would "only serve to create a scar on the landscape thereby devastating the area's natural beauty" creating "an urban sprawl detracting from Weymouth as a popular tourist destination".

He also highlighted the risk of increased traffic and flooding problems as well overloading medical, dental, shopping and school facilities in the area while Philip Robinson, of Lanehouse Rocks Road said the development would affect parking, traffic and safety.

Councillor Gill Taylor, whose Westham West ward contains the land, said: "People are livid at this latest development proposal.

"They fear traffic along Chickerell Road and Lanehouse Rocks Road will become ludicrous. It is already heaving and adding 680 homes to that situation basically spells disaster.

"All 500 homes being proposed are outside the development boundary but our fear is that, with the proposed West Dorset, Weymouth and Portland Local Plan still being thrashed out, developers are taking advantage of the uncertainty to try and force through developments such as this before the Plan is completed.

"There is also the question of infrastructure. Can doctors' surgeries and schools in the area cope with another 680 homes?

"There is no employment land to support these new homes, so where are the people moving into them going to get jobs?"

But Betterment said their proposed development, designed around the contours of the land, would "supply Weymouth with housing to meet the current shortfall, including much needed low cost starter and affordable homes and provide a viable delivery of houses for the future on a sustainable site".

Betterment added: "The vision for the overall proposal is to provide a quality residential development with an appropriate level of affordable housing and open space with a mixed use component to contribute towards the existing local services. A comprehensive network of vehicular, pedestrian and cycle routes will be provided giving good access for both new and neighbouring residents to the wider neighbourhood."

Most of the new homes will be for families, said Betterment, although there would be some flats and "flats over garage" while bungalows would be included on higher ground to the south of the development.

Betterment concluded by saying that carefully landscaped green swales and balancing ponds would control the release of surface water into drainage, there would be open spaces and extra land to enable St Augustine's School to expand in the future.

Those who wish to comment on the proposed development must get their views in to Weymouth and Portland council by no later than October 23rd.

Council scraps thousands of surplus wheelie-bins

DORSET Waste Partnership (DWP) is to recycle around 17,000 old brown wheelie bins in Weymouth and Portland.

The current wheelie bins for food waste and cardboard will not be needed when the new Recycle for Dorset collection service, which starts the week beginning Monday, October 13th.

Brown wheelie bins should be put out whether full or empty on residents' food waste collection day this week.

Residents should leave their bin out after it has been emptied until it is collected by a separate vehicle which should be by 6pm.

The bins will be taken to Wessex Recycling in Somerset where they will be shredded and granulated to make new plastic products.

DWP will not come back to collect any brown bins that were not left out.

Residents may keep their brown bin for their own personal storage but they will no longer be emptied.

Residents will keep their green wheelie bin to use for general recycling and their green box to use for recycling glass.

With the new service, all households will have a smaller, lockable brown bin for food waste, while cardboard should go in their green recycling bin.

The DWP is currently delivering new containers in Weymouth and Portland.

The Recycle for Dorset collection is replacing the previous 12 different collection schemes across the county. By working together, councils aim to drive down costs by £2m a year, reduce the amount of waste sent to landfill and increase Dorset's recycling rate from 50 percent to more than 68 percent by 2019.

New IPACA leaders' names announced

■ DARREN Marklew, Rob Russell and Stuart McLeod

GOVERNORS of the Isle of Portland Aldridge Community Academy (IPACA) have announced new leadership arrangements following the shock resignation of principal Alison Appleyard last month.

Chairman of governors John Tizard said: "The board has agreed that Stuart McLeod, Darren Marklew and Rob Russell will be joint interim principals for at least two terms. They collectively have full authority as principals.

"As well as all-through academy-wide leadership, they will also have individual responsibility for specific phases of learning across the academy with Stuart leading Early Years and Key Stage 1, Darren leading Key Stage 2 and Key Stage 3 and Rob leading Key Stage 4 and the 6th Form.

"The three joint interim principals have been outstanding vice-principals at IPACA and played a key role in leading the academy to its recent Ofsted 'good' grading in June this year. They share a wealth of experience in effective school leadership.

They are well respected by learners, parents and their colleagues. They will continue to build on IPACA's successes and strengthen engagement with parents and the local community.

"IPACA has a very positive future, the governors have every confidence that Stuart, Darren and Rob will lead and steer IPACA on its journey of improvement and opportunity."

All three men said they were looking forward to leading the academy at an exciting time in its development in the run up to the move to the new campus at Maritime House.

Council agrees to fund those in crisis

EMERGENCY financial support for people in crisis will be protected in Dorset next year, despite the end to the Government funding.

Members at Dorset County Council agreed to continue the service at their Cabinet meeting on 1st October, and will be funding the scheme from the council budget next year.

The Local Welfare Assistance fund was introduced in 2013 to replace Government crisis loans, and is an essential lifeline for people who experience emergency circumstances such as floods, fire, domestic abuse or people leaving institutional care.

More than 2000 people received emergency assistance in Dorset last year, many for essential household items, such as food and clothing, furniture and white goods. The scheme also helps people to flee domestic violence. Assistance is only available to households who have no other means of support.

Despite a national demand for emergency assistance, the central funding looks set to end in April 2015, leaving many vulnerable people exposed to potential crisis situations.

Cllr Jill Haynes, the council's Cabinet member for adult social care, said: "The emergency local assistance service has proved to be an effective way to give vulnerable residents access to the things they need in a time of crisis.

"The council has agreed to fund the scheme with just over £200k for the next year, which will provide a safety-net for people facing a crisis and give them assistance with food, clothing, bedding and utility costs if they have no-one else to turn to.

"Local authorities are under no obligation to continue the scheme, and our decision to use the council's money to continue the service means that we have to make further progress in increasing our efficiency, getting better value for the tax payers money and make more efficient use of resources."

The Local Government Association (LGA) has said the move to end the scheme could leave councils unable to support families who suddenly face an emergency and it warned their plight could worsen because they were denied short-term help to tide them over.

The Government has now agreed to review the proposal and a consultation will follow later this year.

Youngsters and police discuss drugs

MORE than 100 secondary school pupils from Dorset held a conference today to discuss policing and safety.

Hosted by the Office of the Dorset Police and Crime Commissioner, the conference 'My Life My Choice' was opened by Police and Crime Commissioner Martyn Underhill and Deputy Chief Constable of Dorset Police James Vaughan. This event at Bovington Park was delivered in partnership with organisations from the community and voluntary sector.

The key note speech was delivered by Sharon Muiriri, who set up Vita Nova, a community theatre group for people in recovery from drug and alcohol abuse and former drug and alcohol users from Vita Nova spoke about their experience of addiction.

Young people took part in five workshops spanning cyberbullying, safe relationships, mental health, the law and young people, legal highs and recreational drugs. The sessions were led by the Dorset Police Safe Schools and Communities Team (SSCT), Child and Adolescent Mental Health Service (CAMHS) and Shadows.

Dorset PCC Martyn Underhill said: "The event was a great success. It was an exciting and important opportunity to listen and respond to young people and work with them to develop solutions to some of the issues they face."

After the conference one young person said: "I found the whole event really useful. I've learnt how to spot the signs of mental trouble, alcoholism and drug abuse and it's great to know the police are behind young people."

Motocross weekend revs up round over a giant jump.

This year's event will break new ground with a fantastic thrill a minute Saturday afternoon entertainment programme which, thanks to £1,500 generous sponsorship by the Waterside Holiday Group, will include Jamie Squibb and his top UK stunt team launching themselves from mobile ramps.

Other attractions on Saturday will be Weymouth's Odyssey Majorettes, Gorillaman on his quadbike and a motocross demonstration as a taster for Sundays big event when up to 300 riders will be rocketing round a course of jumps and chicanes.

The weekend has been organised by Weymouth and Portland Lions Club, Purbeck Motocross Club and Weymouth and Portland council.

Lions activities chairman Trevor Stratton said: "The event is free but we hope everyone will dig into their pockets for the charities we will be raising money for.

"Weymouth Motocross Weekend is the original and the best beach motorsport event in Weymouth. We've been going more than 20 years and we try and introduce new features and build the event up every year."

PMC chairman Alf Stearn said: "This will be my 21st year with the event and we hope it will be the biggest and best ever.

"We rely on volunteers to build the track and take it down, so a big thank-you goes to them because their work is crucial. If we had to pay a company this weekend could not take place."

Weymouth Business Improvement District donated £500 to the event and chairman Alistair Clarke said: "We are delighted to support the event because it is in our business plan to back events such as this. We need more events like beach motocross to attract more people into the town."

Chesil flood defences now intact again

NEARLY £1 million worth of emergency flood defence repair work has been completed at Chesil Cove, Portland, following last winter's terrible storms.

Huge waves smashing into sea defences and Chesil Beach caused major damage which has been dealt with by the Environment Agency working in tandem with Weymouth and Portland council.

Among areas repaired are the sea wall, gabion castle, gabion crest protection mattresses and an important monsoon drain while massive re-profiling of the beach has been carried out to restore protection.

Most of the repair work is finished with only the gabion castle handrail and the last section of monsoon drain still to be done.

Weymouth and Portland environment spokesman Councillor Ian Roebuck warned that the repair work was vital because severe storms were becoming much more frequent events.

He said: "Last winter was something which, on previous estimates was a once-in-50-years storm, yet we had five separate such storms during a very short period.

"It caused very major damage and if we had not taken immediate measures then the sea wall could have collapsed because giant waves had removed shingle up to twenty feet below its base.

"It has required a substantial operation to restore the area. Natural repairs might have been possible by wave action, but the sea wall base was compromised and we couldn't wait for that to happen. Immediate action was needed because without it the wall would have collapsed in the next major storm. It was that critical."

He added that Weymouth and Portland had to recognise that it was "very likely" that there would be more occasions of severe weather to test the defences.

Mr Roebuck said: "Our success under this recent battering is a very positive precedent for our ongoing policies and it is very positive news for residents on Portland that the programme to repair the sea defences at Chesil Beach has been completed.

"But we cannot afford to rest on our laurels. An important future project must deal with material clogging up the big channel which takes storm water away from the beach and out into Portland Harbour.

"That channel is currently not working at full capacity and, while it still provides a significant amount of protection, it needs clearing out to be fully efficiencient."

Mr Roebuck also paid tribute to the Environment Agency and the council's engineering team for their "excellent work".

He said: "Joint working with the Environment Agency will be essential if we are going to be able to continue to offer protection to the many homes and businesses in the Chesil Cove area."

KINGSTON MAURWARD COLLEGE

Starstruck

■ Kaytee Jayne and Glenn with Happy the starfish

HAPPY the common starfish had a pleasant surprise when little Kaytee Jayne from Worthing visited Weymouth Sea Life and took a shine to him in the outdoor rock-pool at the Park.

When she left the attraction she said she loved Happy and wondered if she could adopt him after seeing that the penguins, otters and seals were all available to be adopted.

Aquarist Lauren Timson said: "For a creature that doesn't have a brain, blood or eyes as we know them, starfish can do some incredible things to survive. They can regrow limbs, with some being known to survive more than a week wandering along the ocean floor.

"But also, if they eat something that doesn't agree with them, they can leave their stomach behind and regrow another one."

Kaytee Jayne was invited back to Weymouth Sea Life Park and presented with a special starfish adoption pack which contained a certificate, VIP lanyard, starfish plush toy and some badges.

Her father Kevin Hawkes was overjoyed that she had been invited back for the presentation and said: "Thanks to the team at the Park and in particular Glenn for spending time with Kaytee Jayne and presenting her with this great starfish adoption pack. She is currently in starfish class at school, so this will be a great one for show and tell!"

Ninja turtle films lead to abandonned terrapins

IT WAS a normal Tuesday at Weymouth Sea Life Park until a member of the public called to inform they had found a terrapin in the road by the Granby.

The terrapin was brought to the Park where it was examined and identified as a female yellow-bellied slider, and an overweight one at that, and about 20 years old.

Nicknamed Georgie Porgie by staff, it was apparent that this terrapin had previously been someone's pet due, to the overfeeding, and that it had probably been out in the wild due to the build-up of algae on her shell.

Animal care staff carried out a health check and scan to see if she had been microchipped before slowly acclimatising her into the quarantine tank.

Aquarist Lauren Timson at the Park said it was a rare occasion but not an uncommon sight: "Unfortunately from time to time we do have abandoned terrapins turn up, which is really sad as some of them can be really stressed and in a bad condition.

"After the success of the last Ninja Turtles film, sales of terrapins soared, but sadly many people are misinformed about the care these reptiles require, their breed and the size they will eventually reach."

Due to the launch of the new film on 17th October, Weymouth Sea Life Park has a campaign planned to educate guests about the impact of owning terrapins as pets; along with learning about the personalities of each one at the Turtle Sanctuary part of the Park, all of whom were once someone's pet!

There will be a daily talk from 17th – 31st October with the chance to earn a sticker, 'adopt' one of the Park's terrapins, a social media campaign with facts about terrapins to follow and tank displays with information.

The Turtle Sanctuary opened at Weymouth Sea Life Park back in 2010 due to the sheer volume of abandoned terrapins in the area.

■ Lauren Timson with Georgie and friend

Weymouth Sea Life Park has reached capacity for taking in abandoned terrapins but will always do their best to help a 'turtle in need'.

It is illegal in the UK to release a non-native species into the wild and now some animal rescue organisations will actually euthanise terrapins due to their adverse effect on wildlife and birds.

For now, Georgie Porgie is safe and recovering after her ordeal at the Park where she will remain and eventually go onto display for everyone to see.

Bluebird Care celebrations

STAFF at Bluebird Care Dorset are celebrating three award nominations for the Great South West Care Awards on October 17th.

The awards bring together nominees from an entire range of organisations throughout the South West working to deliver care to older or vulnerable people including county councils and charities as well as private sector companies.

Since the opening of the Weymouth office in November 2011, Bluebird Care Dorset has grown rapidly as a service and achieved much recognition in terms of their success with various awards.

Director, Chris Scriven, a resident of Weymouth, is set to make his second consecutive appearance as a finalist in the Care Innovators category. Chris won the regional award in 2013 and progressed to the national finals, held in London earlier in the year. This award was part of a trio of successes which also included a local business award and a regional finalists award at the Bluebird Care national conference last Autumn.

Chris said: "I am really excited about having made it through as a finalist again this year.

"Our approach revolves around working in partnership with other organisations, groups and clubs throughout the community to ensure we maximise the ways that we are able to help and support our customers. Many of these services are Weymouth or Portland-based as this is where we have our roots."

Also up for awards are Caroline Flay and Kelly Samuels who work at Bluebird Care Dorset's Ferndown office.

Chris said: "We are lucky enough to have three finalists and are delighted to have this presence at the awards. At Bluebird Care Dorset, we are very much a team and all our staff have contributed to our success."

Wey Forward rallies voices for town's development

By Harry Walton
hdswalton@yahoo.co.uk

SCORES of people rallied in the sunshine to put their views forward about the proposed Weymouth Town Centre Master Plan.

The event, on the Pleasure Pier, was organised by Wey Forward, a group of people who want residents to tell the council their views on developing various parts of the town centre, and radio station Air 107.2.

WF spokesman Jason West attended the rally and expressed concerns which included proposals for Weymouth and Portland council information boards for five areas.

Jason said: "These include the railway station area, the core town centre, Westwey Road and North Quay, the ferry peninsula and Custom House Quay and the Brewery Waterfront.

"It is crucial to the future of the town that we get developments that the community wants, will use and that will enhance its life.

"Historically the council has sold a piece of land to the highest bidder and some scheme is passed by planners.

"Wey Forward proposes a different way of looking at the planning and development process with community consultation first and then a development put in place."

He added that it also meant the community had to be interested in using the facility and have some input .

Mr West said: "What we don't want is a repeat of the Howard Holdings development where a single developer was given the right of developing the Pavilion peninsula and produced a design that the majority of people in Weymouth and Portland didn't like and were opposed to.

"The Master Plan inevitably means the investment of hundreds of millions of pounds and when that amount of money is being invested in the town it needs a coherent plan that the people who live here have been consulted about and support."

Among those attending the rally was Weymouth and Portland management committee chairman Councillor Mike Byatt who said: "It is really important to get people's views, to demonstrate that the council listens to those views and that the development of the town centre is properly done and secures a future we can all be proud of.

"We may have financial constraints but that doesn't mean we shouldn't try and be ambitious and have a vision for the future."

Council staff were handed a total of 77 postcard comments at the event. These will be added to the more than 800 responses which were received during recent pop-up events and online comments.

People pack the Victory Hall at Chickerell

Furious locals protest about traveller site

THERE was furious condemnation when more than 100 people packed out a public consultation on the possibility of using a former army camp in Weymouth as a site for travellers.

The event itself was equally controversial since the camp is off Camp Road in Wyke Regis yet West Dorset District Council claims it is in Chickerell and set up the consultation three miles away in the Victory Hall, a venue angry Labour councillors said was inaccessible by public transport for Wyke Regis residents, making the whole consultation "flawed".

So feelings, already stoked before the consultation, showed no sign of cooling when people got inside to leave their opinions so they can be collated with different comments about seven other extra possible traveller sites elsewhere in Dorset.

Louise Mason is organising a petition, which already has more than 700 signatures, against putting travellers on the camp and she said: "We run a livery yard off Mandeville Road and would be right next to any travellers.

"If they come here the horses will be under threat, the girls will pull out and our business will be gone overnight."

Nigel Gauder, of Bryants Lane, Wyke Regis, said the suggestion of putting travellers on the old camp was "ludicrous" and added: "There will be traffic, residential and tourism problems. The site is just totally unsuitable."

Weymouth and Portland Mayor, Councillor Kate Wheller said: "The consultation document is full of inaccuracies. The worst is that it says access is good when it isn't.

"The most important thing is the impact putting travellers on the camp will have on the infrastructure of Wyke Regis. Schools just couldn't cope with the influx of traveller children and their complex needs and neither could the health centre."

Chickerell town, district and county councillor Ian Gardner said: "The amount of people here today shows the strength of feeling but, if residents wish to express their concerns, they should do so in planning terms not emotive terms because that is what will carry weight."

Sharon Jefferies of Peter Brett Associates said they set up the consultation in tandem with West, East and North Dorset district councils and added that it was part of a wider approach for the whole of Dorset looking at more than 100 sites.

"A report will be prepared detailing public comments here today which will go to Dorset County Council for members to decide which sites are suitable. This will create a pool of sites which will be further assessed before local councils decide which ones are suitable for travellers."

Consultation about the old Army camp forms part of the Dorset–wide Gypsy, Traveller and Travelling Showpeople Site Allocations Joint Development Plan Document.

Online comments can be submitted using www.dorset-foryou.com/travellerpitches or in writing by October 24th to: Gypsy, Traveller and Travelling Showpeople Consultation 2014, County Hall, Dorchester, Dorset DT1 1XJ.

Dorset councils will only consider comments by those who provide their name and address.

A SPECIAL Hallowe'en show is to be staged at Weymouth Pavilion Theatre on October 26th.

The plot follows three children determined to win first prize in their school project, so they find their way to Blackdown Castle to discover more about the history of the ruins. But all is not as it seems and their quest is interrupted by friendly ghosts, ghouls and things that go bump in the night.

The production is staged by Ron Martin Management and local girl Denni Record makes her professional debut as Kirsty after being offered the role following her success in the summer show Pirates at the Pavilion, another production by RMM.

Audiences will be treated to a world of magic and illusion as well as Hallowe'en hits and amazing ultra violet puppetry.

Tickets cost £10.50 for adults and £8.50 for concessions and are available online at www.weymouthpavilion.com or by calling the Pavilion box office on 01305 783225.

Home library service host coffee morning

A COFFEE morning will be held at Weymouth Library on Thursday, October 23rd, from 10am-12.30pm. The event is being staged by the Home Library Service which is inviting people to come along and see what the HLS does, how to join it and how to volunteer.

First Black History Month starts with talk about slavery

THE Thomas Fowell Buxton Society is fielding its first Black History Month event on Wednesday, October 29th at 7pm at Weymouth's community fire station on Radipole Lane.

The main speaker is Lynwood Newman, formerly of the US Air Force, who will talk about Black Slavery in the USA.

After a refreshment break there will be short presentations on behalf of networking partners Purple Teardrop Campaign, Fairtrade Forum and South West Dorset Multicultural Network, all highlighting the challenges of the various faces of 21st century slavery.

There will also be a gallery display of artwork from Year 5 pupils at Chickerell Primary Academy on the theme of Freedom, part of the Society's educational initiative to primary schools .

Entrance to the event is free but refreshments are on sale and a Society Monument fundraising table is available to help raise funds for the erection of the Buxton Monument on Bincleaves Green, Weymouth to commemorate the achievements of the abolitionist, Thomas Fowell Buxton, almost 200 years ago and to stand as a symbol for the desperate fight against modern slavery.

October is Black History Month in the UK. It is celebrated annually in February in the USA and Canada. It is in remembrance of important people and events in the history of the African diaspora.

It has its origins in 1926 when American historian, Carter G Woodson, began Negro History Week. In 1976 the expansion of Negro History Week into Black History Month was recognised by the US government and subsequently the Canadian Government recognised it in 1995. It was first celebrated in the UK in 1987 and has spread to Germany too.

Fairtrade shop opens in disability academy

A FAIR Trade shop has opened inside a specialist academy in Weymouth for children with disabilities.

All goods on sale in the shop at Wyvern Academy on Dorchester Road are ethically sourced as part of the school's status as a co-operative academy.

Head teacher Sue Hoxey said: "The shop is being staffed and operated by the children and is really useful for developing work related learning. It is a real asset to the school with staff, pupils and others able to buy things.

"It is helping with numeracy and with life skills. The pupils who are serving in the shop are learning what it is like to be in work and to carry out tasks such as checking that stock is on display, pricing, taking money and giving change.

"Those who are using the shop are learning how to use money and its value. This will enable students to develop skills to use when out in the community and the fact that everything is Fair Trade is helping students of all ages to think about the source of the products they buy and to make choices about them.

■ Abigail Clarke in the new shop

"More than anything else they all love using the till and helping customers with their shopping. Some of the teachers are also finding it handy when they have forgotten something and need to buy something quickly for tea."

World Mental Health Day art exhibition

A WEEK-long creative recovery art exhibition is being held at Weymouth Library to celebrate World Mental Health Day on Friday, October 10th.

The event is being organised by Weymouth and Portland Community Resource Team and features works of art created by individuals with experience of mental health difficulties.

Alongside the exhibition there is also a stall providing information about the Time-To-Change campaign which is a national initiative encouraging individuals to discuss and engage with mental health topics.

The campaign has arisen in light of statistics revealing one in four people will be affected by a mental health problem and nine in ten people who have a mental health problem will experience stigma and discrimination as a result.

Team instructor Brian Woods said: "Mental health is becoming an increasing focus within health care and the media and we hope the exhibition will provide an alternative platform through which to discuss mental health.

"Art is a fantastic outlet for emotional expression and I would like to thank those who have contributed to the exhibition and we look forward to sharing their work with the Weymouth community.

On Friday October 10th from 10.30am-2pm the team will also be hosting a Rethink Mental Illness Pop-Up Tearoom at Weymouth Library in partnership with Rethink Mental Illness which will offer people the opportunity to discuss and learn about mental health over a cup of tea and crumpets. There will also be an information stall providing details on the Recovery Education Centre (REC).

For further information please contact the Weymouth and Portland Community Resource Team on 01305 766237.

The Christian Column

AS I SEE IT...

by Geoff Treleaven

Be fruitful and multiply

WE find in the creation story that reproduction was an essential element applying to our food as well as the human race. One seed can reproduce its kind by many times and most families have the capability of having a number of children.

This is the time of year when many churches will celebrate harvest thanksgiving. We are reminded that there is a time to plough and sow before we enjoy the fruits of reaping. Weather also plays an important part in producing a good harvest, giving us reason to trust God for the outcome of our work and be thankful for the results.

Whilst every seed contains the potential to reproduce many times its own kind, the seed itself has to die for this to happen. If a seed were to be kept and not sown in the ground, it would just remain as a seed.

Some time ago, a fellow believer gave me a booklet entitled: 'Born to reproduce'. It explained that when we become a Christian, we should share our faith with others and humbly point them to our Saviour. That is why I am pleased to write a regular weekly Christian Column for those who read it.

■ THE SWIFT team celebrating 30 years' trading

Swift and sure for thirty years

THREE decades and counting as business continues to soar for Swift Signs

Local design studio, Swift Signs celebrates its third decade of trading and looks set to enjoy many successful years ahead as they launch a new recruitment drive to meet new business demand.

Having grown from humble beginnings in 1983, the Weymouth based firm has grown exponentially over the past 30 years and now employs nine staff providing bespoke signage for all business sectors across the UK.

The established creative team have experience in working on both large and small projects, from local companies such as Daniels Fish & Chips, to national and international organisations such the London Olympics 2012 and Merlin Entertainments Group.

As well as providing quality signage and graphics to businesses, the company is always keen to work closely with the local community by encouraging the younger generation to develop their skills through placements, internships and qualifications

Known widely for their skill in utilising the latest methods and cutting edge techniques within their service, Swift Signs are excited to be expanding and are looking to welcome new members to their team as part of their latest recruitment drive.

Karl Lantree, partner at Swift Signs explains: "Ensuring the growth and innovation over the last 30 years requires investment in technology and people. We believe the best results are obtained by the best people working for the same goals with the same aspirations."

Swift Signs are currently looking to employ three experienced individuals n to join their expanding business. Current vacant positions include experienced Production Manager & Sign Maker, Graphic Designer and a Sign Installer. For more information visit swiftsigns.co.uk

New refuse bins will arrive in time

WEYMOUTH and Portland residents are being reassured that they will receive all their containers in time for the new Recycle for Dorset collection service.

The Dorset Waste Partnership (DWP) and its distribution contractor are working this week to complete bin deliveries ready for the new scheme which starts on Monday, October 13th.

Some residents may have only received some of their containers so far. This is because different types of containers are being delivered separately and may arrive on different days.

Residents are advised that their outstanding containers and information pack should arrive in the next few days.

Properties that currently have a green wheelie bin for rubbish need to use it for recycling instead when the new service starts. They should use their new, smaller black bin for non-recyclable waste and their existing green box for glass.

All households should now have received a collection calendar in the post. These are also available online at www.dorsetforyou.com/recycle.

Some people may have a longer than two-week gap between the last rubbish collection of their current service and the first rubbish collection of their new service.

The DWP will accept additional bagged waste placed beside residents' bins on their first collection. Once the service is established, excess non-recyclable waste will not be collected.

The current brown wheelie bins, which are not compatible with the new service, are being collected to be recycled after households' last food waste collection of the current service.

This is the fourth of five phased roll-outs of the standardised, countywide service, which is already being used successfully in Christchurch, East Dorset, North Dorset, Purbeck and part of West Dorset.

Delivery of new containers is taking priority over requests for changes, which will not be delivered until after the new service starts.

Residents are advised that phone lines tend to be very busy around the implementation of the new service and to report any issues online if they can at www.dorsetforyou.com/recyclefordorset.

Weymouth Matters

A personal View by HARRY WALTON

■ ENJOY the coastal path walk beyond Bowleaze while you can. Winter is coming and everyone is hoping that the devastation caused by weeks of rain last year isn't repeated.

That deluge caused numerous landslips with path sections sagging or being swept away altogether.

The result is that above Bowleaze the path still marches purposefully towards Osmington, but take a few strides off to one side on the down slops and there are giant cracks or earth slumps indicating that the next landslip might take a huge bite out of the route.

If that happens then the damage will be even worse because dangerous edges will have to be fenced off and that will force walkers even further away from the sea views they seek.

There is no suggestion yet from weathermen that we face a repeat of last winter's storms and rain, but the alarming change in walking conditions is something to keep an eye on.

■ IN all the years I have enjoyed the countryside I have never found myself really close to a weasel.....and then one appears almost under my feet near my front gate in Weymouth!

It was quite simply astonishing because the little creature soon attracted an audience of other pedestrians as we watched it dart about along the pavement or under cars.

It seemed a bit disorientated, going first to one side of the road and then the other, and we slowly realised that it might be a baby.

It could still show an incredible turn of speed as it bustled about and, just as cars turned into the road and things could have got difficult, it chose a front garden dominated by a dense bush and slowly eased itself away out of sight.

To see such a creature in broad daylight in a residential area is a really good indication of just how much wildlife we have around us because our garden also regularly gets squirrels for visitors as well as the occasional fox, slow worms, smooth snakes, frogs and numerous birds.

I've never been able to afford to live in the country but I'll take where I do live as a good second best.

So, let's hear what people have to say

PEOPLE are being encouraged to have their say about the Weymouth town centre Master Plan so the finished product can reflect residents' views as much as possible.

Getting people's opinions is clearly a good idea in view of the collapse of the £135 million Howard Holdings scheme for the Pavilion peninsula which the council liked but which more than 7,500 people signed a petition against.

The council scarcely batted an eyelid over people's views then so, if it does now take on board public opinion for the Master Plan, people will be looking for a bit more authority attention to their views than they got with the abortive HH scheme.

Those of us with even longer memories can recall the delights – if that is the right word – of the ten-year bombsite which blighted the heart of Weymouth while the Debenhams-anchored new town centre was ground out.

The vandals playground of boarded up shops and businesses, including the hugely popular Golden Eagle pub, went on for nearly a decade and came close to destroying Weymouth as a shopping town so, whatever modern Master Plan schemes are chosen, we don't want a repeat of that thank-you very much.

What residents will be keenly interested to know is, what's to stop the council taking the temperature of public opinion and then just going ahead with its own template for the future?

Well the council has gone out of its way to stress the importance of people's views so I'd suggest it has to reveal what those views are, saying which schemes, ideas, projects, plans and developments attracted the most public support.

There would then be a publicly available – and publicly accountable -- shortlist which should be debated to produce a guide for the Master Plan.

But at the end of the day the final word will still come from councillors because they will have to make the decision to approve or reject what is being suggested. That, after all, is what residents elected them for, isn't it?

A new hazard

A DIFFERENT season and a different problem for drivers as they switch from keeping a wary eye out for wayward tourist pedestrians to keeping a wary eye out for mobility scooters.

It is the nature of Weymouth's beast that its tourism goes in cycles and shoulder season has always seen coach loads of elderly people flock to the resort.

Sadly not all of them are as adept at getting about as they used to be so some bring a mobility scooter with them or hire one when they get to the resort.

This has seen a sharp increase in such machines around town and on the road with the inevitable increase in incidents.

Among those to surface so far was one user unable to make their mind up about when it was OK to cross a junction....so they just didn't move at all, backing up traffic behind them.

Conversely, one user knew just when to cross a junction and crawled across it right in front of traffic accelerating towards him from a different junction.

On the pavements it is even worse. Some users just turn their mobility scooter without a thought as to what's behind them, forcing pedestrians to leap smartly out of their way.

Everyone understands that mobility scooter users deserve every consideration. Perhaps they should help the situation by trying to show a little more awareness themselves.

TOASTING the festival

All hail to the ale!

By Harry Walton
hdswalton@yahoo.co.uk

MORE than 70 real ales were the toast of the town when the tenth annual Weymouth Beer Festival was held at the Pavilion Ocean Room.

Drinkers were also courted by more than a dozen local ciders and perries as glasses clinked at the packed-out event run by the West Dorset branch of the Campaign for Real Ale.

Chairman Dave Harris said: "We were virtually sold out before the event and nearly every spare ticket left went during the festival.

"It was our biggest day of the year and it went fantastically well, good crowds in for every session."

Those crowds enjoyed everything from Money For Old Rope stout from the Bespoke brewery in Gloucestershire and Copper from Palmers in Bridport to Dragons Blood from the St George's brewery in Worcestershire and Wholesome Stout from the Wye Valley.

Bar manager Rich Gabe said: "Our speciality regions this year were the Cotswolds and the Forest of Dean while we also had a good range of Dorset brews including the Sixpenny Brewery, Small Paul's from Gillingham and the Dorset Brewing Company from Crossways.

"One of my favourites was the Marshwood Vale brewery Gyle 59's GIPA, a ginger-infused India Pale Ale which was a speciality beer which brought something of a different taste to the festival.

"We also welcomed Dorset's newest brewery, Cerne Abbas, which brought its Cerna Abbas Ale to us for the first time while the new Dorchester brew pub, the Brewhouse & Kitchen, brought along Mayor of Casterbridge, a distinctive porter which uses an old 1890s recipe which gives its pint a sweet initial taste of chocolate and coffee but with a dry finish taste."

Cider expert Alex Bardswell said: "We were particular pleased to get Talbot Harris, a cidery from Burton Bradstock which was making its first appearance here.

"We had some beauties including Hecks cidery from Street which brought its Port Wine Cider which, at seven percent, was the strongest we had.

"It was also interesting to see flavoured ciders including elderflower, ginger, honey and berry ciders.

"Bridles perry was available, one of the few remaining Dorset perries, and that proved very popular."

Variety is the spice of life

A GOOD crowd is expected for the charity Cordell Variety Show at Weymouth Pavilion on Saturday, October 18th.

This show will be Mark Sampson-Vincent, Alex Best and Paul Jones' first appearance in a Cordell Variety Show with Mark compering the show. He is a member of the Royal Manor Theatre Company on Portland.

Paul and Alex are members of Weymouth Operatic Society and Alex is also a member of local four-part harmony group the Decadettes.

With them will be Robert Smith who is a member of the Caledonians singing and drama group and who also performs one man charity shows featuring songs, music chat and entertaining anecdotes while Damaris Fowler has appeared in numerous London productions as well as UK and European touring shows. She has also appeared with the London Philharmonic Orchestra.

Paul, Alex, Damaris and Robert will feature in The Little Tramp, a production sequence celebrating the music, songs and artistry of Charlie Chaplin.

The idea for this was inspired by this year being the centenary anniversary of Chaplin's creation of the Little Tramp character.

Paul will be playing Charlie Chaplin, Robert will be playing Mack Sennett, Damaris will be playing Mabel Normand and Alex will be playing Paulette Goddard.

Also in the show are Wessex Harmony, Anna-Maria Geare, James Jones, Geoff King, Dickie Williams, The Pearlies, The Weymouth School of Ballet and Le Companie De Magique.

Musical Director is John Crocker.

The show will feature songs from Les Miserables, Me and My Gir' and Mack and Mabel as well as dance, comedy and speciality acts.

The show is in aid of Weymouth Breathe Easy Group. Tickets are £10 for adults and £8 for seniors and children and are available from the Pavilion Box Office on 01305-783225. They are also available on www.weymouthpavilion.com.

wear it pink

for Breast Cancer Campaign - 24th October 2014 - wearitpink.org

Get ready to bin the beige and wear it pink this October

FINALLY! A charity event that won't leave you on the run from the fashion police. Your passion for pink will fund research, develop new treatments and save lives.

All you have to do is grab something pink, wear it on Friday, October 24th and donate £2 to Breast Cancer Campaign.

With 1,000 women still dying from breast cancer in the UK every month, the fight isn't over. It's now easier than ever before to take part – look good by wearing the latest pink trends with your friends, family, school or colleagues. And do good by raising money to find the cures for breast cancer.

When you join the hundreds of thousands of people who take part in wear it pink, you become part of a collective force of scientists, supporters and people affected by breast cancer. Together, our mission is to beat this disease by funding ground-breaking research.

Our approach to breast cancer research is pioneering and highly responsive. Breast Cancer Campaign looks for opportunities where the potential for real impact is the highest. Then we get the necessary funding straight to where it can make the most difference.

Last Year

The money raised by wear it pink last year has enabled Breast Cancer Campaign to continue funding pioneering research across the UK. This work directly benefits the 50,000 women diagnosed with breast cancer each year in the UK.

In 2013, the nation came together to raise a whopping £2.1 million.

Join with us and thousands of people across the UK this year as organise the biggest ever wear it pink day on 24th October. By coming together to have fun, be fashionable and share our commitment to fight breast cancer, we can raise much needed funds to ensure our research continues to be supported.

Where the money goes

We know that research saves lives. So we fund world-class research, by the brightest scientific minds, anywhere in the UK and Ireland. We actively encourage collaboration and knowledge sharing, and help our scientists and clinicians kick-start innovation.

Our pioneering approach to breast cancer research trusts scientific experts to help us fund the best projects.

We look for opportunities where the potential for real impact is the highest, and we fund them quickly and efficiently.

No other breast cancer charity offers this agility and responsiveness, and no other breast cancer research charity has this single-minded focus.

Why October

The pink ribbon, the international symbol for breast cancer awareness, and Breast Cancer Awareness Month (October), were introduced to the UK almost 20 years ago. Breast Cancer Awareness Month exists to help women be better aware of the common symptoms and seek help as early as possible, which increases their chance of survival. It also serves as a key time of the year when we are able to focus the public's support and raise vital funds for breast cancer research.

While awareness is growing, there is still the need to reach out to more women.

Pink ribbons are not exclusive to Breast Cancer Campaign, and may seem to be everywhere. We try to limit our use of the pink ribbon symbol to Breast Cancer Awareness Month, to ensure it has more impact. Our pink 'jigsaw piece' logo symbolises the missing pieces of the puzzle that are the cure for breast cancer.

Breast Awareness

BREAST cancer is the most common cancer in the UK. Both women and men can be affected by it, so it's important to be breast aware. Being breast aware is part of caring for your body. It means getting to know how your breasts look and feel so you know what is normal for you. You can then feel more confident about noticing any unusual changes and reporting it to your GP (local doctor).

We encourage early detection of breast cancer as the sooner breast cancer is diagnosed the more effective treatment may be.

Our Ambitions

We hope to overcome breast cancer by 2050.

Risk and prevention

By 2025, we hope individual cancer risk will be more precisely predictable and up to 20% of all breast cancers will be prevented.

Unlocking Genetics

By 2030, we hope all patients will benefit from individual care and treatment made possible by understanding all of the genetic variables relating to breast cancer.

Early and effective diagnosis

By 2025, we hope over 60% of breast cancers will be diagnosed before they are symptomatic.

Understanding breast cancer biology

By 2030, we hope what causes different tumours to grow and progress will be identified, enabling us to select the best treatment for every patient.

Improving treatment

By 2025, we hope improved and more personalised treatments for breast cancer will reduce mortality from breast cancer by half.

Tackling secondary breast cancer

By 2020, we hope 25% fewer people will develop secondary breast cancer and by 2030 more than half of those who develop secondary breast cancer will survive beyond five years.

Living with and beyond breast cancer

By 2025, we hope all those diagnosed with breast cancer, and the people close to them, will receive individually tailored information and support to meet their needs, to help them live with and manage the consequences of breast cancer and its treatment.

Biobanking and enabling research

By 2023, we hope a fully cohesive and collaborative infrastructure to support breast cancer research across the UK will be in place, speeding up the pace of discovery and translation into patient benefit.

for Breast Cancer Campaign - 24th October 2014 - wearitpink.org

Breast Symptoms to look out for Changes that could be due to a breast cancer are:

- A lump or thickening in an area of the breast
- A change in the size or shape of a breast
- Dimpling of the skin
- A change in the shape of your nipple, particularly if it turns in, sinks into the breast, or has an irregular shape
- A blood stained discharge from the nipple
- A rash on a nipple or surrounding area
- A swelling or lump in your armpit

These signs don't necessarily mean cancer. Inverted nipples, blood stained nipple discharge or a rash can all be due to other medical conditions. But if you have any changes to what is normal for you, you should see your GP. It is most likely to be a benign condition that can easily be treated. Your GP can refer you to a breast clinic where the staff can reassure you and give any necessary treatment.

Seeing your doctor early also means that if it does turn out to be cancer, you give yourself the best chance of successful treatment.

If you find a breast lump

See your doctor straight away. If you notice anything unusual about your breast, have it examined. Even though most breast lumps are benign, they need to be checked to rule out cancer. Our page about breast awareness shows how to learn what is normal for you.

Your doctor will examine you and if necessary will send you to a specialist breast clinic for further checks. At the clinic, they will be able to do tests such as a mammogram or ultrasound to see if the lump is a fluid filled cyst or a solid lump.

If it is a cyst, the doctor or nurse may get rid of it by draining the fluid out through a fine needle. If it is a solid lump, they will take a tissue sample (core biopsy) to test for cancer cells.

Some women prefer to have benign lumps removed to stop them from worrying that it may be a cancer. They may be concerned that they will confuse the benign lumps with any other lumps they may get in the future. But if you and your doctor are confident that the lump is benign, you don't have to have it removed if you don't want to.

If your lump is a cancer, the earlier you have breast cancer treatment, the better your chance of cure.

Breast pain

Breast pain is very common and is not usually due to cancer. Many healthy women find that their breasts feel lumpy and tender before a period. And some benign breast lumps are painful. Many women get pain in their breasts for a while, which goes after a time. There may be no obvious reason for the pain, even with lots of tests.

Most breast pain is not caused by cancer, but some breast cancers do cause pain. So if you are worried see your GP, particularly if your breast is also inflamed.

Other symptoms

A rare type of breast cancer called inflammatory breast cancer can have different symptoms. The whole breast can look red and inflamed and can be very sore. The breast may feel hard. The skin sometimes looks like orange peel because the pores stand out in the inflamed area.

Another rare type of breast cancer shows up as a rash on and around the nipple. It is called Paget's disease. The red, scaly rash can be itchy. It looks a bit like eczema and is sometimes mistaken for that at first.

Again, if you have any changes to your breasts that are not normal for you, do go to see your GP.

If you feel worried

If you are worried that you don't know how to feel your breasts properly, there are people who can help. Talk it over with:

- Your doctor or nurse
- Staff at your local well woman clinic – your GP or practice nurse will be able to give you the telephone number
- Staff at one of the breast cancer organisations

They can tell you:

- What changes you can normally expect in your breasts
- About ways of learning how your breasts should look and feel

10% of the revenue from this feature will be donated to the local Breast Cancer Charity

Get Involved

At work

We (www.wearitpink.org) have loads of great resources and ideas to help you and your colleagues raise even more money at work - from stickers to custom posters to make sure everyone knows about it. Why not ask your boss to 'match fund' your event so you can double your fundraising power?

At school

Wear it pink is an event for everyone – boys and girls as well as teachers (and parents if you like). All you have to do is grab something pink, make or eat something pink, as part of your wear it pink event (any day in October) to raise money for Breast Cancer Campaign.

At home

From pink food, to pink drinks, and even pink pamper parties, there are loads of ways for you to wear it pink at home or socially. Get all of your friends together and have a fantastic night in while helping to raise money for the work of Breast Cancer Campaign.

Fundraising Ideas

Cake sale

Everybody loves a cake sale - get baking those pink cupcakes, sponges, biscuits or muffins. Then set up a stall and sell them to raise lots of money!

Pink clothes

Forget school uniform for the day! Pay a £1 to come dressed in pink. You could dress from head to toe in pink, or if you just want to wear pink socks - then that's fine too! We want you all to look good while you're doing good.

Pink treasure hunt

Get pupils to find as many pink items as they can and get sponsored by friends and family. Look out for a pink loom band, a pink feather, a pink pencil - and much more!

Pink crafts

Create some pink art with a heart. Make cards or presents for family and friends to buy. After all, it'll only be a few weeks until Christmas - perfect to get that shopping done early, and fundraise at the same time!

You won't get thanks, but you'll save a life

By Geoff Baker

GIVING to the Water Survival Box appeal is probably the most selfless thing that you can do and the hardest to understand.

It is the ultimate in altruism, giving money to help keep alive a family whom you will never know and who have no way of ever thanking you.

Your name will never go on a roll of honour, you won't get a Christmas card, you can't phone up to ask "how it's going?" and nobody will ever know that you donated.

And not only that, you will be giving to help people who don't actually need your help yet – because the disaster you will be helping them to survive has not even happened.

It's like blind fostering a family for the future, "giving in the dark", charity on tick.

It's a tough call to make the big ask for the Water Survival Box precisely because of that, the essentially prescient nature of its role.

When a tsunami takes out Thailand and the BBC is beaming footage of bloated bodies floating in the brown water, then giving is easy. When mothers made of rag-clad bones are shown on the news from Africa with a stick-insect child dying on the dried, shrunken breast, it's the stuff of nothing to get the cheque book out.

But when you're asking for help in advance, help for what you don't at the moment know needs helping, then it's hard.

Which is probably why most people have never heard of Water Survival Box. They're not up there with the Save The Children, Oxfam, the Red Cross or any of the UK's other massive charities whose turnover would put a major company to shame.

Water Survival Box doesn't have fab London offices, they don't have regional reps with company cars, swanky PRs on expense accounts and chief executives whose vast salaries make the likes of me cynically question the whole charity bit.

Instead, Water Survival Box works out of a nondescript garage on a bleak business park on the back roads of a rather unremarkable Somerset town. There is absolutely nothing flash about this lot; they are the beige lino of the charity world.

But what they do is miraculous and they make miracles with just a box.

Now even the most artful of publicists can't construct a donation-prompting sob story around a box. There's nothing dramatic, super-sexily-alarming, "I'm Michael Buerk reporting from the sea of famine in Ethiopia" about a box.

But here's the thing about the Water Survival Box, it maintains life. Like doctors do, like hospitals do, but this is a box doing it.

When a natural disaster happens – and believe me, they are going to happen (the increase in hurricanes alone since we started messing up the planet is alarming) – what happens is that the flood, drought, tsunami or earthquake almost always first takes out the supply of clean water.

There may be millions of gallons of water flooding about disaster zones, but you can't drink it because it is contaminated with the bodies of people and animals and it will kill you.

So to survive, you need clean water. Without clean water, you'll be dead in seven days, ten max.

What the little Water Survival Box does is purify killer water. It turns water that will give you typhus and cholera and dysentery into that which gives you life. And one box will work to give clean water and life to a family for a year.

Now, if there was any collective intelligence in the world there would be Water Survival Boxes already in place all over the planet in those regions where natural disasters are most likely to occur; sub-Saharan Africa, the coasts of India and Pakistan, for instance. If we were bright, every home everywhere would have a Water Survival Box.

But we're not bright. When it comes to humanity looking after all of our selves – as opposed to looking after ourself – we are as thick as the greatest dunce that has ever been. We know there's going to be natural disasters ahead, but we like to ignore that, to put it out of our minds as unimportant compared to the greater priority of hooking up to superfast broadband in order to gorge more rapidly on some vapid new release from a Hollywood studio.

But fortunately in the town of Chelwood Bridge, Somerset, there's a bunch of volunteers who aren't so thick. They, the small team of Water Survival Box, worked out that when a natural disaster strikes the biggest block to saving life is time.

Work it out yourself – Typhoon Haiyan flattens the Philippines, four million people are left without water and it gets on the news the next day, that's day two of no water.

So somebody worthy launches an appeal, films and edits the appeal video, that's day three. The next day, four, if you're lucky, the appeal will get on the BBC News. The next day, five, your cheque is in the post. The day after that, six, the charity banks it.

Putting aside for one moment the wicked way in which banks still claim the four working days it takes for a cheque to clear – when we know in these days of instant money transfer that the claim is a self-funding lie – we're already on the sixth day and the charity hasn't been able to use your money for emergency rescue yet. Day six of the seven it takes to die without water.

But what Water Survival Box (intelligently) does is stock up. They amass as many life-sustaining boxes as they can afford upfront of disasters that haven't happened yet, so that when it happens (and it will) they don't have to play race the clock with people's lives, they can get the boxes straight out there.

It costs £150 to fit out each box with the water purifier, cooking and eating utensils, basic means of shelter and the other essentials that you need when a natural disaster has robbed you of everything. That box will keep a family of four alive for a year – at a cost of 41p per day or 10p per person per day.

Can you give 10p a day for a year to keep another human being alive, knowing that they can and will never thank you for it? Do you have that sort of heart? If you do, visit the www.worldwaterworks.org

And on behalf of those who will lose everything apart from your kindness, thank you.

SINCE launching our two-year campaign for Water Survival Box in Novmeber 2013, View From and its sister papers in East Devon and South Somerset have already raised £7,000 towards our £10,000 target.

The Water Survival Box is crammed with all you need to stay alive after you have lost everything – cooking and eating utensils, basic means of shelter and other essential kit – but most importantly a water-purification pump that will make clean water from dirty water and provide a family of four with clean water every day for a year.

If you would like to organise an event or find out more about our campaign, call James Coles on 01297 446155 and we will promote it in our columns. To make a donation, please make a cheque payable to 'Water Survival Box – View account' and send it to: James Coles, Water Survival Box campaign, View From Newspapers, Unit 3, St Michael's Business Centre, LYME REGIS, Dorset DT7 3DB.

Report details state of our environment

THE release of a new report: 'Natural Value: The State of Dorset's Environment', which explores what Bournemouth, Dorset and Poole are doing to protect and manage Dorset's environment, was launched in Poole this week.

After many years of planning, this new report, published by Dorset's Local Nature Partnership, (LNP), seeks to answer questions such as: Is Dorset as green as we think it is, or should be? Is it getting better or worse, and how does Dorset compare to the rest of the UK, or even the world? Issues such as recycling rates, development pressure, the extent of protected areas and how much outdoor exercise we get is covered by this ground-breaking exposé of life in Dorset.

Chair of Dorset's Local Nature Partnership (LNP) Dr Simon Cripps said: "This report is long overdue but it has taken a huge amount of work by the many partners forming the LNP. It shows as you might expect that Dorset has an unparalleled natural heritage that is worth billions of pounds each year in income, but it is very fragile and has been badly damaged in the past. We must better learn how to look after this goose that lays the gold eggs so that we can achieve valuable growth and development, but not at the cost of the very environment which sustains it."

MARINE survey by Peter Tinsley

WEYMOUTH relief road by Phil Sterling

The report has revealed some striking facts and figures about Dorset, including:

- 76 of the county's important nature conservation sites have been lost since just 2005.
- Otters have now recolonised almost all of Dorset's rivers.
- 2.8% of our county's 11,000 irreplaceable heritage assets are at risk.
- Tourism is worth around £1.44 billion to Dorset each year and 12% of jobs, both of which are almost entirely dependent on our natural environment.
- We recycle more than the national average waste.
- Outdoor exercise could cut down on NHS spend on drugs and obesity.
- Over 25.8% of our coastal waters are in some way now protected.

The report can be downloaded from www.dorsetwildlifetrust.org.uk/naturalvaluereport and from partner organisation websites.

Support your local community shop!

DORSET residents are being encouraged to up their spending on village and community shops – and for councils to do more to help local stores.

The call comes after the county's Campaign to Protect Rural England group backed the 'Best Village Shop' category in this year's Best Village Competition.

"We would like to ask CPRE members and everyone else to help our village shops. If only each household spends a few more pounds each week in their local store; if only parish councils were encouraged to help these shops resolve local parking and other issues; if only all district councils were urged to give 100 per cent business rates relief automatically then the situation would be so much brighter. Therefore please spend more and make your voice heard!" said CPRE spokesman Rupert Hardy.

The competition was won by Winfrith Newburgh Village Stores with Iwerne Minister's shop a close runner up.

"Dorset CPRE was very pleased to be sponsoring once again a class of the Dorset Best Village Competition organised by Dorset Community Action, after a gap of some years. We were asked to suggest a new class and we thought Best Dorset Village Shop was a good one given the difficult situation village retailers find themselves in. The competition from the supermarket chains has been relentless. Besides in and out-of-town major outlets, the chains now offer convenience stores and deliveries to every corner of the countryside so it is not surprising the number of Dorset village shops has fallen over 20 per cent from 224 in 2006 to now, with more likely to close unless we help them," said Mr Hardy.

RUPERT Hardy at the presentation with the owner of Winfrith Newburgh Village Stores, Pascal Surre,t and their youngest employee

"Overall we are hoping this competition will highlight the better retailers and show others what can be done too. The criteria used for this award were evidence of good customer service, the shop acting as a community hub, innovation in terms of product range and services, and how much local food they are selling and promoting."

Mr Hardy said the winners of the competition, Winfrith Newburgh Village Stores, has attentive and welcoming staff, well presented stock with displays making the best use of the space and plenty of Dorset produce, prominently displayed.

"They are clearly trying hard to meet the needs of the community, with a delivery service and weekly visits to the local nursing home and supporting local charities. They are fizzing with new ideas, a monthly newsletter, a good website, a loyalty card and even online ordering."

Should fire services combine?

JUST a couple of weeks remain for Dorset residents to have their say on the idea of combing the county's fire service with Wiltshire and Swindon.

Dorset Fire Authority will meet on November 4th to consider the responses to the consultation and make a final decision.

The closing date for public comments is October 20th.

Diarmuid's autumn advice

By Hannah Stephenson, Press Association

AFTER a glorious summer at home pottering around his garden in Ireland, green-fingered TV presenter Diarmuid Gavin is now preparing his beds for the cooler months.

"Things in my own garden are beginning to die back. I have some wisterias I've been training up a cast iron verandah and underneath that I will be ripping out some perennials that haven't been happy in my garden, like a trochodendron, which has looked sickly and has black spots under the leaf."

He swears by the following tips for renewal and regeneration which will help your garden withstand the cooler months and ensure it is in good condition for the year ahead.

The lawn

"It's time to get ready for renewal and the first thing to look at is the lawn, which has probably been battered by kids running all over it in the summer holidays. "A really good maintenance session, scarifying, aerating and topping up the roots of the grass plants with some autumn fertiliser will make a massive difference," he says. "Really getting stuck in with a spring tine rake to remove all the thatch is an incredibly satisfying job.

"For a couple of weeks, the lawn will look like you've demolished it, but later on, it will improve its condition. It's all about toughening it up to get it ready for winter. Spiking it and aerating it really allows the oxygen to get right down to the roots, but also releases some of the other bad gases that may have built up. Be cruel to be kind."

Prolong the season

Continue to deadhead anything that's still in flower but also visit your local garden centre to see what's coming into flower. "Some of the autumn sedums are fantastic and encourage butterflies, so you could drop in some spot colour before the frost comes. Dahlias such as Bishop of Llandaff with bright flowers and deep purple foliage look fantastic now so put them in pots in the border.

"Some of the Japanese anemones also look fantastic and there's plenty of scope for using spot colour in the garden. You don't have to give up just yet. Even some of the exotic-looking cannas, such as Canna Tropicanna, are looking good now."

Clear up leaves

You'll have to rake up fallen leaves or they will suffocate any plant life underneath them and provide shelter for pests. If you have lots of leaves and enough space and time, make leaf mould by putting your leaves into dustbin liners with air holes in them and leave them to rot down to make a great mulch. It does, however, take a year or so for the leaves to break down sufficiently to use.

Herbaceous perennials

Tidy up herbaceous perennials that are flopping or have developed rust. In a month's time, you can start to lift and divide perennials to renew their vigour and produce new plants. Out of one clump, you may get seven or eight smaller ones. Replant them, digging organic matter into the soil at the same time and they should give you a good show next year.

Check your soil

Autumn is a good time to check to see how your soil is doing. Prepare to do a big mulch and buy in some organic material. "Planning is key," says Gavin. "If the garden has produced the goods for you this year - and for most people it's been a really bountiful

Sherborne Turf

ESTABLISHED for over 40 years, Sherborne Turf is situated in the picturesque village of Trent in Dorset, where we have around 150 acres of quality farmland dedicated to the production of our Trent Turf. Grown without netting, we use a blend of grasses developed over the years that will knit together to form a firm base, and leave our turf in the ground for 18 months before harvesting. It is then freshly cut to order and delivered using our own vehicles. While the trade standard for delivery is 'kerb-side', we realise that this is not always practical for our customers, and so our experienced drivers always endeavour to place the items as conveniently as possible for you, a service which is often not provided by other companies.

Although our core business is turf production, we also supply a full range of locally sourced topsoil, compost, bark and mulch. Other essential garden items include fertiliser, irrigation equipment, landscape accessories, and a full range of seed mixes to grow wildflowers and grasses for companion sowing.

Our delivery vehicles include an artic with removable forklift, a 6-wheel rigid crane lorry, and a pick up truck with trailer. We also have access to a wide range of vehicles for bulk loads of topsoil, compost and bark.

All of the staff here at Sherborne Turf have experience of the products we sell, and are happy to discuss any aspect of your garden project. Our website www.sherborneturf.co.uk contains detailed information, practical advice, and even has an interactive calculator. We are also on Facebook and Twitter, or why not give us a call on 01935 850388.

year - you want to condition the soil. See what will need to be mulched and enriched and order your manure to be delivered, before everyone else does."

Consider fencing

If your fencing has fallen down or broken, consider planting a hedge to replace it in the autumn. I'm planning to take out fencing panels and plant beech or a mixture of beech and holly hedges in a client's garden in Sheffield. Get rid of non-descript shrubs like forsythias and if you want a hedge, prepare the soil now. Autumn and winter is a great time for this because you're not battling against slugs, the lawn isn't growing at the rate it was and you have time to invest in one or two big projects."

Plant bulbs

Bulbs have been in garden centres for the last eight weeks and now it's worth having a co-ordinated approach to this, considering what you want to achieve, whether it's bulbs in pots around the front door, or in drifts in a lawn - you can coordinate that with your lawn aeration - or in through the beds and borders.

"There's no point in buying a dozen daffodils and planting them in a row because they'll look terrible. You have to plan and invest. Maybe buy a 5kg bag of daffodils and plant them in drifts rather than placing them one by one. Throw them on the ground and see where they land, which will give you the most naturalistic planting. Plant them at least twice their depth and give them a bit of feed if you want them to be vigorous."

"The secret is, don't skimp on bulbs. The only place you can skimp is if you're just putting them in pots."

Best of the bunch

Physalis (Chinese Lantern)

THIS spreading, rhizomatous, herbaceous perennial has insignificant creamy bell-shaped flowers in midsummer before inflated, papery 5cm mlanterns emerge which turn from green to beige and then orange-red in autumn.

They are great for including in flower arrangements, and should be cut and then dried for winter decorations. Plants grow to about 60-75cm tall and 90cm across, but spread by suckers and need to be kept in check if you don't have much room. They prefer full sun in any well-drained soil, although they will tolerate light shade.

Help shape the future of county hospital

DORSET County Hospital NHS Foundation Trust is calling on the community to help shape the future of local healthcare services.

The strategic plan for the next few years centres around bringing hospital and community services together under a single 'healthcare hub' to improve access for patients.

The Trust is now hosting a series of public events to talk about the plan in more detail and get feedback from local people about what would make health services work better for them.

Led by clinicians, the first of the events will be held on Monday, October 13th from 5 to 7pm at

The Children's Centre, Dorset County Hospital (Damers Road entrance) and again in the same location on Wednesday, October 22nd, 6pm to 8pm.

There will also be a chance to attend on Monday, November 3rd, 2pm to 4pm, at Bridport Town Hall and on Monday, November 10th, 2pm to 4pm, at Weymouth Pavilion Ocean Room.

Dorset County Hospital's Chief Executive Patricia Miller said she hoped as many local people as possible would attend the events.

She said: "We want to simplify the health system for local people so that their care is delivered at the right place at the right time.

"Our plan is to join up hospital and community services so that patients can access all the services they need without the need for multiple referrals to different organisations. We want to co-ordinate services so that patients are looked after by the same team throughout their treatment in a setting that suits them, be that their own home or in hospital.

"There is recognition at a national level in the NHS that this 'integrated' approach provides a much better service to patients. What we need now is input from our local community to make sure we get our system right so it works best for local people's needs. It's often simple things which can make a big difference and we want to capture as many ideas as we can to feed into the detail of our plan.

"I'm really looking forward to this opportunity to outline our plan in greater detail and listen to what local people have to say."

There is no need to book a place at these events, but if you would like more information please call the hospital's communications team on 01305 254683 or email communications@dchft.nhs.uk

If you have a story from the Bridport or Beaminster area, please call the newsdesk on 01297 446161 or email jack@pemedia.co.uk

Canadian musician and storyteller comes to Broadwinsor

IAN SHERWOOD HAS EVERYWHERE TO GO

IAN Sherwood is a musician, a storyteller and a constant creator. Having penned tunes for many other artists as well as theatre, film and television, Ian was named Contemporary Singer of the Year by the 2013 Canadian Folk Music Awards, Best Male Artist of the Year by the 2012 International Acoustic Music Awards and was the 2008 and 2010 Music Nova Scotia Musician Of The Year. CBC Radio described him as "... a natural performer who entertains as much with his wit and stories as with his songs."

Ian Sherwood

Starting his music career as an in-demand saxophone player in Toronto, Sherwood soon began looking for an outlet for his poetic side. His unique musicianship combined with his tales of heartbreak, victory and adventure quickly gained recognition as a solid performer, lyricist and player. This led to a nomination for the 2011 ECMA award for Male Solo Artist Recording of the Year.

His highly anticipated new album Everywhere To Go was released this month to coincide with a special UK Tour and, following a short tour of Scotland earlier this year, Ian will be coming to Dorset this October for two special gigs – don't miss the chance to see this outstanding musician live in a village hall near you!

Ian Sherwood plays at the Comrades Hall, Broadwinsor on Saturday, October 18th at 7.30pm. Tickets are £8,. available by calling 01308 867644.

Acclaimed American ensemble Northern Harmony

TRANSCENDING THE TRADITIONAL DEFINITION OF CHORAL MUSIC

SIXTEEN sparkling singers from Vermont (USA), led by Larry Gordon, form the unique music vocal ensemble Northern Harmony; the highest level performing group under the umbrella of the world music organisation Village Harmony. Since 1993, Northern Harmony have toured and performed widely throughout America and Europe to great critical acclaim. Now on their 16th European tour, these outstanding performers visit Dorset for two special concerts with Artsreach this spring, as part of a large scale national tour which sees them visit such venues as The Sage, Gateshead and the American Museum in Bath.

Transcending the traditional definition of choral music, the group is particularly renowned for its command of varied world ethnic singing styles; from the hearty and ultra bright Bulgarian "hard voice" to the equally powerful, but darker and more sonorous Georgian timbre; from the rich, mellifluous South African style or the wild and unrestrained American shape-note sound and quartet gospel to a delicate, pure, early music timbre. The singers include some of the most talented veterans of other Village Harmony performing ensembles. Many of the younger members have sung with Village Harmony since the age of 12, and most have studied traditional singing styles first hand with native teachers in South Africa, Bulgaria, Corsica and Caucasus Georgia. These concerts will feature the thrilling mix of world harmony traditions that has earnt Northern Harmony their wide reputation for a remarkable command of different singing styles.

You can see Northern Harmpress at Wootton Fitzpaine Village Hall, this Saturday, October 11th from 7.30pm. For more details call 01297 560948.

Once Upon a Time in a Western

AWARD-WINNING physical comedy theatre company Le Navet Bete are touring to Dorset through Artsreach this October, and are set to wow audiences with their biggest show to date, Once Upon A Time In A Western.

A south-west success story who originally met at Plymouth University, Le Navet Bete have gone on to tour all over the UK and internationally with both indoor and outdoor performances. In their latest production, the sleepy town of Kidneystone is threatened by outlaw and all-round bad guy Loco Pedro, who is secretly in cahoots with the Mayor to rob the town's train of all its gold. Integrating live music, physical comedy, audience participation, pistols at dawn and sugar glass bottles, it promises to be an interactive, fast-paced ride across the Wild West.

Once Upon A Time In A Western is directed by John Nicholson (Peepolykus) and has already toured extensively around the UK, including the Exeter Phoenix, Bristol's Circomedia and Jackson's Lane in London.

The show comes to Martinstown Village Hall on Saturday, October 11th at 7.30pm. For more details and to book call 01305 889963.

WWI Play Reading at Dorset County Museum

A DRAMATIC play reading provides the final event associated with Dorset County Museum's current exhibition, A Dorset Woman at War. On Thursday, October 16th The New Hardy Players will be reading a play originally published in 1909. An Englishman's Home caused a sensation when it came out anonymously under the name, A Patriot. It later came known to be the work of Captain Guy du Maurier, a British officer. An uncle to Daphne du Maurier, his play was said to have influenced her famous novel, The Birds. An Englishman's Home went on to be a long-running success and was later made into a film.

"This play was politically provocative and deliberately designed to frighten its audiences" says Jon Murden, director of Dorset County Museum. "Writers like du Maurier were frequently criticised as scaremongers by leading politicians of the day. Unfortunately they were proved right when the First World War broke out."

The semi-staged play will be performed with some costumes and props and is set almost entirely in the sitting room of a suburban house in Essex. It tells the story of a fictional attack on England by an unknown enemy (generally assumed to be Germany). The alarming nature of the story, at a time of increasing tension between Britain and Germany, served to highlight the unreadiness of Britain to repel such an attack and was credited with boosting army recruitment in the years immediately prior to World War I. It also influenced Mabel Stobart, the subject of the Museum's current exhibition.

Tickets for the play reading cost £7 and include a complimentary glass of wine or a soft drink. The event starts at 7.30 on Thursday 16 October and all are welcome. Tickets are available now from the Museum Shop on 01305 756827.

For further information visit the website at www.dorsetcountymuseum.org.

Elizabeth I visits Dorset!

LIVING Spit Theatre Company are now renowned in the South West area – as well as the rest of the UK - following a string of visits and hugely successful productions including One Man and his Cow, Adolf and Winston and The Six Wives of Henry VIII. Written, produced and performed by two actor-musicians (Stu Mcloughlin and Howard Coggins) Living Spit productions are notably recognised for their hilariously witty and clever 'poorly researched' interpretations of historical events. Told through live original music, silly songs, smutty shenanigans and hysterically historical horseplay, their latest edition to add to the collection is Elizabeth I – Virgin on the Ridiculous, showing at the Marine Theatre on Saturday 18th October (7.30pm) and Dorchester Arts on 24th October (8.00pm).

1558 sees a country divided by religion and politics, teetering on the brink of civil war. The hopes of the nation lie with one woman.

2014 sees a country divided by those who enjoy plays featuring men in dresses, and those who don't. The hopes of the nation lie with two Bristolian actors.

Elizabeth I – Virgin on the Ridiculous will be performed on Saturday, October 18th, 7.30pm (doors open at 7pm) at the Marine Theatre, Lyme Regis. Tickets are £12 or £10 (concessions). To book tickets, contact TIC on 01297 442138 or visit www.marinetheatre.com.

The show also comes to Dorchester Arts Centre on Friday, October 24th at 8.00pm (doors open at 7.30pm). Tickets are £12 or £10 members and concessions. To book tickets, contact the Box Office on 01305 266926 or visit www.dorchesterarts.org.uk

The show is suitable for ages 14+.

Opsrey Leisure Centre now offering monthly membership packages

FOR the first time since opening to the public, Osprey Leisure Centre is able to offer monthly membership packages which not only allow all current facilities to be used for as little as £25 per month, but also permit either longer term or non contract deals to be purchased.

For this price the three new gym areas can be used and members can swim and enjoy the majority of the class programme for this all inclusive amount.

Compared to the 2012 and 2013 prices this means that every customer is able to 'get more for less' if they wish.

As well as new fitness equipment, new classes in the fitness programme and brand new spinning classes on offer this all adds up to an excellent value package to help people achieve their 2014/15 fitness goals or give them many options including pay and play.

For more information visit the leisure centre website or call reception, details available on the advert below.

Opera, Theatre and Jazz at The Gateway

THE Gateway in Seaton is set to host another top selection of entertainment throughout October.

On Saturday, October 11th, National Theatre's critically acclaimed performance of A Street Car Named Desire will be screened.

The fastest-selling production in the Young Vic's history, Tennessee Williams' timeless masterpiece will be broadcast live from their London home by National Theatre Live. With Gillian Anderson (The X-Files, The Fall) as Blanche DuBois, Ben Foster (Lone Survivor, Kill Your Darlings) as Stanley and Vanessa Kirby (BBC's Great Expectations, Three Sisters at the Young Vic) as Stella.

As Blanche's fragile world crumbles, she turns to her sister Stella for solace – but her downward spiral brings her face to face with the brutal, unforgiving Stanley Kowalski. Visionary director Benedict Andrews returns to the Young Vic following his Critics' Circle Award-winning Three Sisters.

Doors open 6.30pm, with the performance starting at 7pm. Tickets are £12.50 in advance or £15 on door, and are available online from the website ticket shop or Box Office 01297 625699.

The next night, Sunday, October 12th, the Met Opera's performance of Verdi's Macbeth will be screened live.

Anna Netrebko moves boldly into Verdi with her searing portrayal of Lady Macbeth, the mad and murderous mate of Željko Lucic's doomed Macbeth. Adrian Noble's chilling production also stars Joseph Calleja as the noble Macduff and René Pape as Banquo. Fabio Luisi conducts.

"One of the greatest triumphs in recent Met history. …Anna Netrebko… a spectacular artist of vast interpretive skills… A riveting performance dispatched with artistry and fearless intensity." —(Bloomberg).

Doors open 5.30pm, performance 5.55pm Tickets £15 in advance or £17.50 on door. Tickets available online from website ticket shop or Box Office 01297 625699 Category Opera

One of Britain's most entertaining and exciting jazz bands perform a professionally orchestrated and ideally balanced fast moving show of traditional jazz music for the discerning audience on Saturday, October 18th.

The Pete Allen Jazz Band appears at prestigious Jazz festivals, theatres and clubs throughout the UK and abroad, with tours around Europe, U.S.A., Majorca and the Canary Islands. They also play for many well known celebrities. Pete Allen formed the band in 1978 and during the early years made over thirty appearances for 'Pebble Mill' At One for the BBC Television. Over the years Pete has appeared on many television and radio shows, both with his own band and as a solo artiste. He has topped the bill in those magical homes of jazz, St. Louis, Sacramento and of course, New Orleans, where he was awarded an Honorary Citizenship for his services to jazz music. Tickets available at The Gateway Box Office 01297 625699. £12 in advance or £15 at door.

The Met Opera returns to the Gateway's screen on Sunday, October 19th with their performance of The Marriage of Figaro.

Music Director James Levine conducts a new production of Mozart's eternal masterpiece, directed by Richard Eyre, who sets the action in a 18th-century manor house in Seville during the 1930s.

Dashing bass-baritone Ildar Abdrazakov, our Figaro, leads a dazzling cast, including Marlis Petersen as his bride, Susanna, Peter Mattei as the philandering Count, Amanda Majeski as the long-suffering Countess, and Isabel Leonard as the libidinous pageboy Cherubino. "A ravishing, intricately wrought evening of music, humor and emotional depth... An evening like this is the strongest argument for the continued vigor of the Met." (New York Magazine).

Doors open 5.30pm, performance 5.55pm Tickets £15 in advance or £17.50 on door. Tickets available online from website ticket shop or Box Office 01297 625699.

Local young Soprano, Chloe Stratta, to sing with English Opera Ensemble

Chloe Stratta

FROM Charmouth Primary School to a promising future in Opera - 22 Year old Chloe Stratta will sing the role of the shepherd who heralds the coming of the fatal dawn in Act 3, with the English Opera Ensemble in the forthcoming production of TOSCA, which is being produced by STAG (Shute Theatre and Arts Guild) in Kilmington Church next month. The young soprano will be singing and supporting a dazzling cast of professional singers including Anna Gregory, Dominic Barrand and Michael Bracegirdle, opera stars who's past performances have graced the stages of the Royal Opera House and the Royal Festival Hall.

Chloe graduated from the University of Manchester in July 2013 with a first class bachelor of music degree. She currently studies as a soprano under Ryland Davies and Deborah Rees. During her time in Manchester, Chloe was involved in many concerts as member of the University Chorus, and the University's prestigious chamber choir, with whom she toured to Milan. In July 2014, Chloe sung in the Dorset Opera Chorus for their 40th anniversary productions of Verdi's Aida and Beethoven's Fidelio. Her solo concert work includes Fauré's Requiem, in Exeter Cathedral, Haydn's Creation Mass with Lyme Bay Chorale, and Haydn's Mass in the Time of War, with Sidmouth Choral society, as well as recital work. She looks forward to returning to sing for these groups this Autumn. Chloe grew up in Lyme Regis, and attended Colyton Grammar School, singing in the school choir and chamber choir, directed by David House. She received singing lessons from Brian Manners.

The Bridport Open Book 2014

BRIDPORT Arts Centre is preparing to inspire and delight book lovers with a celebration of reading and writing. This year's Bridport Open Book will take place from October 14th - 18th. There will be an exciting mix of readings, film, music and workshops, As usual; the festival will climax with the awards of the prestigious Bridport Prize.

The entertainment starts on Tuesday, October 14th, 7.30pm with Of Willie Maugham a play written and performed by Paul Webster, based on the life of one of the most popular and prolific writers of his day. The premier performance will take room in the snug in the George Hotel, a space perfectly suited to theatre lovers and bookworms alike. Distinguished actor Paul shares the richness and diversity, the humor and the agony of a long life, well lived.

Alternatively on Tuesday evening there will be the Bridport Story Slam at 7.30pm in Beach & Barnicott. The event presents an exciting opportunity for writers of short stories and flash fiction to read and share their work or come along to enjoy original and inspirational stories from Dorset writers.

Lyrical Lunchtimes will return to the Beach & Barnicott on Wednesday, October 15th 1-2pm and Thursday, October 16th 3-4pm. These events are free and include readings and story sharing from local groups.

British poet Daljit Nagra will retell a great Indian epic in Bridport Arts Centre's theatre on Wednesday, October 15th, 7.30pm. When he was a little boy, his grannies told him stories of Rama's quest to rescue his wife Sita from abduction by Raavana, Lord of the Underworld. These stories – The Ramayana – have enchanted Eastern audiences for centuries. Now Nagra has reinterpreted them for a modern, multi-cultural, multi-faith audience with The Retold Ramayana.

There will be two creative writing workshops. Writing Good Dialogue will take place on Thursday, October 16th, 10am-12pm with Belfast based writer Andrea McCartney. The two-hour workshop will show participants what to think about when starting to write and how to improve dialogue already written.

Liberation through Constraint: Set your Fiction Free will take place on Friday, October 17th, 4pm. Led by Bridport Prize Flash fiction Judge Tania Hershman, this workshop will explore constraint, and how it can unleash creativity.

Other highlights include An Audience with novelist Jason Goodwin in Bridport Library on Thursday, October 16th and The Bridport Big Read 2014 on Thursday, October 16th 6pm. The Bridport Big Read gives people a change to read and share thoughts on a chosen book. This years choice was previous Bridport Prize 3rd place winner Kirsty Logan's book of short stories, The Rental Heart. Bridport Prize administrator Kate Wilson will lead the conversation.

There will also be a poetry morning led by David Bushrod, Christine Prideaux and Margie Barbour on Friday, October 17th at Bridpoort Arts Centre. They will be joined by Soprano Emily Hicks and Bruce Upton on the grand piano, if you would like to dedicate a reading to someone special – just let the people in the box office know.

On Friday evening there will be an evening of readings by Bridport Prize Judges Liz Lochhead, Andrew Miller and Tania Hershman at Bridport Arts Centre. The three hugely respected writers will be sharing their own work ahead of the Bridport Prize Award Ceremony on Sunday, October 18th, 12pm.

Marketing Manager Lisa Wilcock said: "The Bridport Prize Award Ceremony is always a highlight on our calander. This years ceremony will be extra special we will be presenting a prize for the first ever Pegy Chapman-Andrew's First Novel Award".

For a full programme of events please visit www.bridport-arts.com or pick up a programme form the Arts Centre box office.

Make it yourself...

Focaccia

THIS simple bread recipe can be made in two hours. You can add herbs such as rosemary, or some grated cheese and diced red onion to the simple dough.

Ingredients

- 300ml warm water, 25 to 30 degrees C
- 15gm fresh/ 12gm dried yeast
- 15gm caster sugar
- 500gm strong white bread flour
- 15gm salt
- A little olive oil and sea salt for topping

Equipment needed

- Somewhere warm, dry and draft free to prove the bread, EG an airing cupboard, a shelf above the cooker. The ideal temperature to prove bread is 27 Degrees C.
- A flat baking tray, lined with baking paper.

Makes one good sized round loaf, 10 thick generous slices

Method

IN A GOOD sized bowl whisk together the warm water, yeast and sugar, leave in a warm place for five minutes or so until the water starts to fizz a little. Add the flour, a little at a time to start with, work into the yeasty water with your fingers until a smooth pliable dough, add the salt.

NB the dough should be workable without sticking to a work surface.

Knead and work the dough for five minutes to strengthen the gluten in the flour. Place in a clean, lightly oiled bowl, cover with cling film and put in a warm dry place to prove for approx 45minutes to 1 hour (the dough should double in size).

"Knock back" the dough to its original mass, and gently work the dough again for one minute. Form the dough into a round, with a rolling pin roll the dough into a rectangular round 1.5cm thick, transfer carefully onto the lined baking tray. Make 40 or so indentations in the surface of the bread with your fore finger, lightly brush the surface with olive oil, and scatter on some sea salt (add herbs, olives or sun-dried tomatoes for extra flavour). Return the bread to a warm dry place to prove again for approx 30 to 45 minutes, or until the bread has doubled in size again.

Pre heat oven to 220 Degrees C.

Bake at 220 Degrees C for approx 20 minutes, or until the base of the bread is crusted and firm, place on a cooling tray to cool rapidly.

Make it yourself...

Tomato and chilli chowder

with toasted goat's cheese

THIS Spanish tapas inspired dish makes a great starter or warming lunch time dish and cries out for freshly made bread!

Serves 4

Ingredients

- 2 small shallots, peeled and diced
- 3 cloves garlic, fine chopped
- 1 large red chilli, seeded and fine chopped
- 1 dessert spoon good quality tomato puree
- 1 small teaspoon smoked paprika
- 150ml red wine
- Sprig thyme, 2 bay leaves
- 300gm ripe tomatoes, fine chopped / 300gm quality tinned tomatoes
- 1 dessert spoon caster sugar
- A little olive oil for cooking
- 250gm goat's cheese, cut into 4 clean slices

Equipment needed

- Preferably 4 small round shallow terracotta tapas style dishes, or something similar to place in the oven.

Method

IN A SMALL pan, on a medium heat, gently sauté the shallots in a little olive oil for three minutes or until translucent. Add the garlic, tomato paste, paprika and chilli, sauté and stir for 2 minutes more. Add the thyme, bay leaves and red wine, simmer for a few minutes to reduce a little and "cook off" the alcohol in the wine. Add the tomatoes and sugar, simmer and occasionally stir for 30 to 40 minutes or until the sauce has reduced to a thick, velvety consistency.

Cool and reserve for use. When ready to serve the dish, put 3 tablespoons in each tapas dish, carefully place a goat's cheese round on top and bake in a pre-heated oven at 170 Degrees C for 10 minutes or until the goat's cheese is glazed and the tomato chowder is bubbling. Ideally serve with freshly made bread.

The Bake Off

with Tierra Kitchen's award-winning chef Mark Evans

FOOD fashions are truly strange things. Not so long ago it was all about chemicals, foams, hot water baths and cooking everything in a vac pack. Gastro pubs and restaurants were producing such complicated dishes…"Todays special is Quail's egg ballotine with vodka jelly, hazelnut foam and parmesan air"....nice! Now, it seems to be all about baking with a retro post war 1950s twist. Shops are full of homely biscuit tins and picnic hampers covered with union jacks. Making a great simple Victoria sponge is where its at.

Making bread theoretically should be very simple, after all it generally only contains flour, water and yeast with a bit of salt and sugar. However it's the time factor which is the complicated bit, we all live busy lives, bread is time consuming to make. At the restaurant time and space (we have a small kitchen, and a relatively small oven) calls for a juggling act when it comes to preparing everything freshly. Cutting out our bread making would make life a lot easier! However, it would be like cooking on another planet without the beautiful smell of bread wafting out of the oven at 11.45 each day.

For our recipes this month we've got a simple white focaccia bread, and a rustic tomato and chilli chowder with toasted goats cheese. Next month, as it's November and probably a bit wet and windy its all about tagines, slow cooking and mouth watering aromatic spices.

New Generation i20 – Space and Substance meet Style and Refinement

▲ Hyundai New Generation i20

WITH the launch of its latest model, the New Generation i20, Hyundai Motor Europe is continuing its successful presence in the B-segment, highlighted by almost a million sales since 2002. The popularity of the original i20 has made it one of the company's best-selling cars in the region. The key aims of the new model are to open Hyundai Motor Europe to an even wider audience, further develop perceptions of the brand and confirm Hyundai's strategic focus on Europe.

The New Generation i20 has been designed and developed in Europe, and three key attributes in particular underline how it meets the needs of European consumers: class-leading interior space, high-technology and comfort-enhancing features, and clean, refined design.

Hyundai's third-generation B-segment vehicle highlights a significant step forward for the company since 2002, when Getz was first introduced to Europe. The New Generation i20 remains true to the principles of delivering value beyond expectations, exemplified by models including New Generation i10 and New ix35. The launch of this latest vehicle also means every Hyundai model in Europe has been renewed in the last five years.

Making its debut at the 2014 Paris Motor Show in October and entering production during the same month, the New Generation i20 will go on sale throughout Europe from November 2014.

Longer, lower and wider than the previous model, New Generation i20 was penned at Hyundai Motor's Design Centre Europe in Rüsselsheim, Germany. The new model's character is inspired by the company's Fluidic Sculpture design philosophy, with elegant lines and a sculptured profile giving it a bold and sophisticated appearance. On the New Generation i20, Hyundai Motor's key design element - the hexagonal grille - flows into stylish bi-function headlamps with LED daytime running lights.

Key styling cues are echoed inside the spacious cabin. Sitting on a new platform, the wheelbase has been extended by 45 millimetres to 2570 mm creating more space for occupants. Class-leading interior space – 1892 mm combined front and rear legroom – makes the New Generation i20 a true five-seater, while outstanding boot capacity of 326 litres heightens the vehicle's versatility.

Designed to transport the driver and passengers in great comfort, the cabin features extensive use of soft-touch materials, as well as subtle piano black inserts and chrome detailing, to create a modern and sophisticated interior package.

The vehicle has also been fitted with a number of new technologies that provide levels of comfort and convenience normally associated with large-vehicle segments. For example, the inclusion of front and rear parking assist, heated steering wheel, static bending headlamps and automatic defog system are firsts for a Hyundai B-segment vehicles. Additionally, the lane departure warning system is another innovative feature, normally found in higher segments. The unique-in-class panoramic sunroof, able to both tilt and fully open, enhances the comfort and the sense of space for occupants, filling the cabin with natural light and fresh air.

The New Generation i20 is available with a choice of three Hyundai 'Kappa' petrol and two 'U-II' diesel power units. Proven powerplants have been carried over from the previous-generation model with a number of improvements to enhance driveability and ensure compliance with new Euro6 emission regulations while the 1.4-litre petrol engine is developed.

A new Kappa 1.0-litre T-GDI downsized and turbocharged petrol engine will further enhance the New Generation i20 engine line-up in 2015. The new engine is the first of a new generation of downsized turbocharged petrol engines, offering enhanced performance, driving pleasure and efficiency. The 1.0 litre T-GDI engine, which was developed in Hyundai's European Technical Center in Rüsselsheim, is able to produce up to 120 PS and 172 Nm of torque.

New Nissan Juke Nismo RS Prepares to Hit the Road

THE wait is nearly over: the Nissan Juke NISMO RS is set to storm into showrooms across Europe in December and priced from £21,650 OTR. The arrival of the new RS model marks the start of a second exciting chapter in the history of the Juke NISMO and further expands Nissan's growing NISMO road car line-up.

First previewed at the 2014 Geneva Motor Show, the Juke NISMO RS has undergone a thorough NISMO development programme, and follows hot in the wheel-tracks of the flagship Nissan GT-R NISMO.

Confirming Nissan's reputation for delivering excitement and motorsport-developed technologies to the broadest possible audience, the new Juke NISMO RS features a host of enhancements over the standard NISMO model. With more performance, a sharper chassis set-up, more powerful brakes and extra equipment, the new RS is an even more extreme and focussed version of Nissan's acclaimed compact crossover.

Like every NISMO model, the RS is infused with motorsport-inspired design, aerodynamics and maverick engineering to deliver thrilling performance and handling in a road car.

"With Nissan Juke NISMO already accounting for a growing number of all Juke sales in Europe, the enthusiasts' desire for more performance is clearly there. The new NISMO RS version offers just that and cements NISMO's reputation as creators of digital age performance," said Guillaume Cartier, Senior Vice President, Sales and Marketing for Nissan in Europe.

Benefiting from NISMO's extensive global motorsport experience, the NISMO RS's advanced 1.6-litre DIG-T engine has been reworked to boost power to 218PS (160kW) from 200PS (147kW) while torque in two-wheel drive/manual transmission versions is increased from an already impressive 250Nm to 280Nm. To ensure the chassis can successfully transfer the extra torque to the road, 2WD models also benefit from the addition of a mechanical Limited Slip Differential (LSD) on the driven front wheels.

Four-wheel drive models feature Nissan's advanced Torque Vectoring System as standard, along with Nissan's Xtronic transmission and 250Nm of torque. Xtronic transmission models also feature standard-fit steering wheel-mounted paddle shifts to control the eight-speed manual mode.

The NISMO RS's performance gains are matched by a sportier soundtrack courtesy of a retuned exhaust system with a large diameter silencer.

Other improvements linked to the increased engine performance include strategic body strengthening to increase torsional stiffness still further, and a braking system that has been enhanced for even better resistance to fade under repeated hard use. Front disc size has increased from 296mm to 320mm, while the rear discs are now ventilated. Revised spring and damper settings complete the chassis changes.

The Juke NISMO RS is set apart with red brake callipers and discreet 'RS' badging on the front and rear. Inside, the RS logo appears in the rev counter while a distinctive suede wrap covers the instrument binnacle. The final finishing touch inside is an eye-catching water print finish on the shift knob/paddle shifters and the central cluster.

Options on the RS version include special Recaro sports "bucket" seats and the Safety Pack that includes the following: Xenon headlamps, Nissan's Around View Monitor and Safety Shield, Lane Departure Warning, Blind Spot Warning and Moving Object Detection giving visual and audible warnings to avoid potential collisions.

The new Juke NISMO RS is available in a choice of three exterior colours – Storm White, Pearl Black and Blade Silver - with a single bespoke interior treatment.

A New Take on the Audi TT

AUDI has drawn inspiration from its five-door A5 and A7 Sportback models, which artfully blend the rakish lines of a coupé with the real world practicality of an executive class car, to create the TT Sportback concept, which will make its world debut at the Paris Motor Show. Adding 29 centimetres to the length of the 'standard' TT to incorporate its extra rear doors, the full four-seat show car takes the famous silhouette in another new conceptual direction, and its 2.0 TFSI engine also expands considerably on its more familiar output in the production coupé, weighing in at a brawny 400PS.

"With the TT, Audi created one of the automotive design icons of the last 20 years," says Prof. Dr. Ulrich Hackenberg, Audi Board Member for Technical Development. "In the years since, we have designed our sporty and elegant five-door Audi A5 Sportback and Audi A7 Sportback. In our Audi TT Sportback concept show car, we are now fusing both concepts to form a new member of a potential TT family."

The mighty 400PS output delivered by the Audi TT Sportback concept flows through a seven-speed S tronic twin-clutch transmission to the quattro permanent all-wheel drive system, helping to peg the 0 to 62mph sprint time at just 3.9 seconds. The sophisticated suspension and the low centre of gravity ensure dynamic handling, and the body integrates a number of lightweight aluminium components. A laser spot that complements the LED high beam is featured in each of the headlights – this innovation from Audi significantly boosts safety when driving in the dark.

The Audi virtual cockpit dominates the elegantly designed interior of the show car, with the 12.3-inch screen replacing the conventional instruments and the MMI monitor. The screen provides top-quality graphics and enables the driver to choose between multiple display levels. In the MMI terminal, the rotary push-button features a touchpad that is used to enter characters and gestures as with a smartphone. The operation of the climate control has been relocated to the air vents.

Exterior design

The five-door Audi TT Sportback concept is 4.47 metres long, 1.89 metres wide, and 1.38 metres high, and is built around a wheelbase of 2.63 metres. Compared with the new production TT, it is 29 centimetres longer, 6 centimetres wider, 3 centimetres lower and has a 12 centimetre longer wheelbase.

Featuring Mars red paintwork, the body is a statement of powerful elegance: High-precision lines border athletically domed surfaces, and a flat greenhouse is positioned on a powerful body. The design makes use of the Audi TT's formal idiom to develop a new sporty and elongated sculpture that is highly taut.

The distinctive horizontal lines at the front end of the new Audi TT Sportback concept reinforce the broad and purposeful stance. Bearing the quattro badge on its lower edge, the Singleframe grille is flatter and wider than on the two-door coupe and features a honeycomb grille insert with a dark aluminium look.

Spacious, Stylish And Packed With Technology - New Nissan Pulsar Set To Shake Up The C-Segment

NISSAN'S passion for innovation and technology has seen it transform the family car landscape over the course of the last seven years. Now, using the same design approach and original thinking that produced its range of crossovers, Nissan is expanding its product portfolio once again with an exciting, all-new family hatchback challenger - the Pulsar.

Combining bold design, technical innovations and class leading interior space, the all-new Nissan Pulsar brings a fresh dimension to the C-segment, offering all the familiar Nissan qualities in a stylish new package.

The Pulsar's introduction highlights Nissan's bold ambition and desire to deliver intelligent design and technical innovation to the widest possible audience. Designed to appeal to a broad range of buyers, from D-segment downsizers to family motorists who have outgrown their B-segment cars, the Pulsar showcases Nissan's design skills and introduces an array of in-car technologies - some of which are brand new to the sector. With exceptional material and build quality, the Pulsar offers buyers a premium ownership and driving experience without having to pay premium prices.

Instantly recognisable thanks to its trademark Nissan V-motion grille, boomerang signature headlamp characteristics and bold, muscular curves, the Pulsar was designed and engineered for Europe and will be built at Nissan's Barcelona production facility.

Embedded with the same design DNA that gives the Qashqai and X-Trail such powerful road presence, the Pulsar combines strong lines with immaculate detailing to create an elegant, athletic form. Like its crossover stablemates, the Pulsar is characterised by strong wheel volumes, a tapered waistline and a flowing profile.

The confident, premium approach continues inside, where high quality materials and clear design are perfectly integrated with Pulsar's impressively high equipment levels.

Thanks to the longest wheelbase in the class (2,700mm) and clever packaging, the Pulsar offers considerably more rear legroom and shoulder room than its sector rivals. Indeed, with 692mm of leg space - the Pulsar has in fact more rear kneeroom than the average D-segment offering. Yet despite this, it retains a compact footprint (length 4,385mm), making it easy to park in tight urban environments.

Dorset Football League

Premier League
Weymouth Reserves 2
Cranborne 0

The hosts claimed the points after this hard fought victory against the villagers.

It took two Sammy Nicholls goals in the 46th & 55th minutes to seal the win.

One black mark on the day was the straight reds given to Sean Zima from Weymouth and Dan Loader from the visitors for a melee in the 86th minute.

Senior League

BALTI House didn't have a game this weekend but remain top of the Senior League.

Third place Chickerell beat Gillingham 4-0 at home with goals coming from Steve Welch, Warren White and a brace from Josh Why, whilst Portland United visited Piddletrenthide Spartans and won 2-0.

Division One

WESTLANDS won 4-2 away at Bere Regis, with Carl Hann and John Sanders scoring for the hosts.

Division Two

WYKE Regis moved into pole position in Division two following their 5-3 away win at Portland Town.

However, Chickerell United Reserves went down 4-0 at Piddlehinton United and AFC Blandford won 6-0 against Portland Town.

Division Three

PORTLAND Town Reserves won their first game of the season beating visitors Stalbridge with goals from Johan Ogilve and Lee Whischel, but Maiden Newton & Cattistock lost 3-2 at Handley Sports

Division Four

FLEETLINE remain top and unbeaten after their 3-1 home win against UFC of Poundbury with goals from Matt Roberts (2) and Matt Gilbert, whilst at the other end, Kangaroos won their first points with a 4-3 victory over Portland Town A.

Ross Foot with a brace, Kieron Gallimore and Steve Wilson were on target for the Roos,with Danny James, Anthony Desmond and Ben White scoring for the Islanders.

Owermigne went down 2-1 at Pimperne Sports, but a hat trick from Matt Jones saw Portland Utd Youth beat Broadstone Res 3-2.

Division Five

THE New Windowman made it four wins from four with an 8-1 victory at Wool & Winfrith Reserves and stay top on goal difference from Donhead Utd who beat bottom side Portland Town B 8-1, Jason Pearson getting the visitors consolation goal.

UFC of Poundbury Res beat their visitors Okeford Utd Rese 4-0 with R.Johnson, Harry Norman, Tom Robson and Jack Payner on target.

West Dorset Youth Indoor Cricket League

Weymouth C excel in opening match

WITH both Portland and Dorchester unable to field teams only one game was played in the first week of the West Dorset Indoor League with Weymouth B scoring a comprehensive victory over their C team.

Weymouth U12 C 155-1 beat Weymouth B 82ao by 73 runs

BATTING first Weymouth C produced an outstanding display with Olly Gordan (32), Josh Parson (28), Sam Burton (25) and Tom Anderson (26) all remaining undefeated as they all displayed excellent shot selection and outstanding running between the wickets.

Weymouth B never gave up and a superb piece of fielding gained them the wicket of Ben Hunter (15) via a run out as the C team's innings closed on 155-1 after their allotted 12 overs.

Chasing a competitive total the B team got of to the worst possible start, losing Gab Burton for a duck in the first over cleaned bowled by Hunter. Olly James battled well in scoring 25 until being caught by the impressive Hunter off the bowling of Anderson.

Weymouth C kept up the pressure, bowling and fielding well as the run rate climbed and it was a fine knock of 16 by Toby Dimott-Allot that kept the game going until the final over as Weymouth C ran out worthy winners in an entertaining game.

Weymouth U12 A beat Portland w/o
Cerne Valley U12 beat Dorchester w/o

Portland U14 144-1 beat Weymouth A 142-2 by 5 wickets

THIS local derby produced an absolute thriller with Portland coming out on top of the last ball of the game.

Batting first Weymouth's opening pair of Joe James (40no) and Dominic Webb (34no) kept the run rate up with some stylish shots and intelligent running, both having to retire.

Tom Chedzoy (34no) kept up the pressure on the Portland attack with a succession of well placed shots as Weymouth looked to post a challenging total.

Portland's Owen Harrison trapped Dring (4) with a sublime caught and bowled and Bower followed quickly caught by Jacob Coombes of the first ball from Thomas Hinde as Portland looked to slow the run rate.

However, the returning James continued to show great maturity, attacking anything loose with style as Weymouth closed on a competitive 142-2.

Portland led by skipper Joe Adkins (22) kept up with the run rate as the game built to a thrilling climax.

With the loss of Adkins to a fine catch by James off the bowling of Webb, Portland's Coombes (30no) in partnership with Ben Alford (25no) exploited anything wayward as the pressure on both sides built.

With Coombes and Alford having to retire, a resolute and determined partnership from Hinde (17no) and Harrison(5no) edged Portland to the finishing line.

With one ball left they required one to win, which they did with a scrambled three.

Both teams produced cricket of the highest standard and displayed great sportsmanship in a game that kept the crowd on their feet throughout.

Martinstown U14 165-2 beat Weymouth B 80 all out by 85 runs

A WELL-DRILLED Martinstown beat a young Weymouth B with a dominant display with both bat and ball.

Batting first Martinstown's openers John Stewart (35no) and Nathan McNab (26no) got their team of to a flyer, punishing every loose ball with style .McNab fell to a fine run out as the young Weymouth team never despaired and fought all the way.

Gabriel Maltby (25no), Jamie Stewart(27no), Daniel Wilkinson(17) and William Maltby (17no) all produced good innings enabling Martinstown to post a highly competitive 165-2.

Weymouth were always up against it and Wilkinson produced a devastating spell of 3-2-7-3 to rip the heart out of their reply.

Weymouth's Dylan produced a battling 46 runs but the writing was on the wall, and when he last man was out Martinstown's dominant display was crowned with an excellent victory.

League Organiser Grant Neven was full praise for all the youngsters and added: "Yes they were two contrasting games, but they all produced excellent cricket and battled to the last ball.

"The standard of cricket on display was second to none and all the respective clubs deserve a pat on the back for all their efforts with the youngsters coaching; well done all."

Weymouth Basketball

Torbay toppled

Massage Weymouth Raiders 61
Torbay TOFS 54

IN a close and exciting match, the Raiders dug deep to win the second game of the season against a strong Torbay side.

The game started well, with Weymouth taking a quick lead; their zone defence making the opposition work hard to score.

Good rebounding and steals from Connor Doherty and Sam Brown led to points from the fast break and, together with baskets from Simon Dean, resulted in Massage Weymouth leading by five points at the end of the first quarter.

However, Torbay responded by bringing on some of their strongest players and began to play aggressive offence.

With Raiders players fouling and making turnovers under pressure from their defence, Torbay took the lead with multiple three-pointers to end the first half 22–27.

Coach Craig Sorrell changed the Raiders defence to come on strong in the third quarter with Dan Park working hard, forcing turnovers and getting the Torbay side into foul trouble.

Strong drives from Jeff Robertshaw and shots from MVP Piotr Lason meant that the Raiders could close the gap and force the opposition to resort to fouling to stop them.

But it was the fourth quarter where the Raiders really pulled the game back scoring 24 points to Torbay's eight.

momentum

Performing well under pressure, Max Gilmartin took on the role of point guard and the Raiders grabbed the lead with a three-pointer from Lason who scored 20 points in the second half. Points from Doherty and Park helped to keep the momentum going.

In the final minutes of the game, the Raiders held on to their lead by just a few points, coping with the strong offence and outside shooting of the Torbay side to win the game 61–54.

Coach Sorrell said: "I'm incredibly proud of our team performance tonight. We showed that we can win games and play well together to beat a strong side. And even when we were losing, we kept our heads up and got the win."

Scorers/Roster: Lason 23, Robertshaw 14, Park 6, Dean 4, Tom Storey 4, Gilmartin 3, Scott White 2, Doherty 2, Brown 2, Kyle Houlden.

Rolls crowned club champion

ROB Rolls is this year's Charminster Golf Club champion after he recorded a gross score of 149 over 36 holes. After countback, Tony Lee became the Nett Club Champion with a score of 134 from his 20 handicap.

Rolls had warmed up for the event by winning the Sunday medal earlier in the month with a lowest gross score to return a 72-5-67 nett, beating Leon Newey's 87-20-67 nett on countback. Lee also got in good practice by finishing third with90-2-70 nett.

Peter Churchill was the Seniors Champion with a gross score of 120 over the 27 hole competition, with 21-handicap Nigel Barter recording a 95.5 nett to become the Nett Seniors Champion.

Two medal competitions preceded the championship events during September with Mark Boggust winning the Wednesday Division One medal with a score of 75-12-63; this excellent round leading to a one shot handicap reduction. Chris Simmons took second place with 83-17-66 and Terry Drudge third on 86-19-67.

The Division Two medal winner was Phil Farmer whose 88-22-66 also resulted in a one shot handicap cut. He won on countback ahead of both lowest gross scoring Adrian Short on 8-/21-66 and third placed Charlie Dunn with 93-27-66.

The last event of the month was a Sunday stableford. The winner was Jules Walker who scored 40 points off his 11 handicap, the unlucky Newey once again beaten on countback, and also having his handicap cut by one to 19. Andy Draper took third place with 38/20.

Rolls kept his form by helping Roger Ingram and Duncan Green win the mid-week Texas scramble, the trio recording a nett 61.

A 4-1 defeat for The Three Counties team in their last league match at Long Sutton means they are relegated and will return to Division Two in 2015.

The senior's team played in two matches, firstly halving at Sturminster Marshall 3-3. The final match was a triangular event held at Kingweston in stableford format, which was won by the hosts from Wincanton and Charminster.

Gladiators hang on for narrow victory

Swanage & Wareham 3rd 20
Dorchester 3rd 21

DORCHESTER Gladiators were drawn against opponents in the league above them for this cup-tie.

An early score by the hosts was judged held up, but eventually they got their reward, though the conversion was missed.

From the restart, Dorchester applied more pressure, and the game became more even. Andy Matthews reached the Swans 22 with a break down the right wing, and a good passing move saw the ball switched to Cameron Lynch who touched down under the posts for a simple conversion by Jamie Morgan.

Dorchester again made a mess of the restart, leading to a period of Swans pressure. When Dorchester did manage to win the ball, full-back Morgan was isolated by three of the hosts, and when an attempted chip failed to get over the defenders, they had a clear run in for Swans' second. A third followed soon after as a clearance kick was charged down, neither being converted.

In the second half Dorchester took more of a grip on the game. Unfortunately their attempts to win the ball from rucks were often judged illegal, giving rise to a whole string of penalties.

A rare Dorchester advance down the right wing ended with Tom Gower scoring out wide, leaving Morgan with a tricky conversion which he slotted, bringing the game to a single point.

Swans were not going to lie down, and eventually overcame a heroic defence to score again. The conversion was missed, meaning there was still just a single score in it.

With 10 minutes to go, Lynch latched on to a loose Swans pass and scampered to the posts evading numerous attempts at tackles for his second score. Morgan's simple conversion put Dorchester back in the lead by a single point.

The visitors were advancing well into the hosts' territory when the ball was passed to a burly forward who's support was a slow and it was Dorchester's turn to gain a penalty as the lone attacker held on to the ball after being tackled.

A simple clearance to touch and Dorchester were through to the next round by a single point.

Under 9s

THE Under 9s travelled to Corfe Hills School to play their first game of contact rugby.

The match had been long awaited by those who came up through the ranks from U8s as they ditched the tags at the end of last season and played three matches against the home side.

Dorchester with a few newcomers since last season, fielded two teams; Dorchester and Vipers,: working with rolling subs against Wimborne's three.

All the teams were fairly evenly matched with the three games for each side coming out with a win, a loss and a draw.

Under 8s

DORCHESTER Under 8s started the season with a thrilling match against Wimborne. Dorchester fielded two teams and the visitors four with all teams playing well in an evenly contested game.

There were some impressive tries from both sides and all players passed and tagged well with some excellent teamwork.

Beaminster Hockey

Fair Point

Beaminster 1
Bournemouth 3rd 1

BEAMINSTER Ladies recovered from their opening match drubbing to claim a deserved point against Bournemouth 3rds.

Beaminster however got off to a poor start and were a goal down inside two minutes.

They were still sorting themselves out following late arrivals and Bournemouth took advantage with a ball into the D which was slotted home, and it could have been two but for a good save by Phoebe Stewart in the home goal.

A strong run down the right from the powerful Megan Tuck on 15 minutes led to a short corner, which she then converted following a goalmouth melee from the resultant situation.

Beaminster almost went ahead five minutes later but Holly Clarke's shot following another short corner was cleared off the line.

The game was end to end and good play from Bournemouth saw the ball played across the face of the Beaminster goal with no one on hand to touch it home, before Clarke was denied at the other end on in a one-on-one with the keeper.

The visitors started the second half well and forced two short corners, but then had a player sidelined for five minutes for a yellow card offence, but restored to parity in numbers they continued to make the running and once again flashed a ball across the face of goal.

Beaminster youth cricket training resumes

BEAMINSTER Cricket Club's winter youth training starts this Saturday (October 11th) from 10am to 11am at the Beaminster School Sports Hall (tunnel road entrance).

Please note there is a £3 charge per session per child to cover the hire of the hall.

Beaminster youth teams continuously seek new players. The coaching set up for 2015 sees Ross Baker in charge of the Under 9s, with softball friendly matches planned, whilst Mark Pattemore will run the Under 11s.

Jack Walklett will coach the Under 13s with Baker also responsible for the Under 15s who will be entering a team in the Dorset League.

Players are reminded that if they did not pay an annual fee (£25) last year, this amount is due by the end of December 2014.

A view on the Bees

BY STUART BROOM

Dovell double seals the points for Bees

Bridport 3 Sherborne Town 2
Toolstation League – att: 95

TWO goals from Ryan Dovell sealed three points for Bridport in an exciting, but below par match following two league defeats.

Bridport welcomed back some of the squad missing on Saturday at Dan Wise's wedding, but whilst there was plenty of effort from both sides, there were only occasional glimpses of good football.

Early on Joe Smeeton smashed a 35-yard shot that cleared the crossbar and Jamie Symes struck a similar effort the other end but it was Bridport who took the lead in the sixth minute with a bizarre goal.

Symes scuffed a 20 yard shot at goal after being set up by Warren Byerley, and by goalkeeper James Smith's reaction it looked as if the shot was going wide. However he misunderstood a defender's call of "safe", and left the ball which instead trickled very slowly inside the post.

Perhaps frustrated, Zebras' skipper Steve Burton sent Matt Morley crashing to the ground soon after which he was maybe lucky to escape with just a caution, but fortunately the game did not get any more violent than that.

Sherborne began to get more into the game but Bridport doubled their lead midway through the half.

Good work by Jamie Filkins to win the ball back freed Symes who neatly whipped in a cross to Dovell who met it with a powerful header, and although Smith got a hand to the ball he could only help it high up into the net.

Unfortunately Symes played a part in Sherborne's reply on 28 minutes when he failed to control the ball and Shane Evans brought down Sam Jarman in the box as he tried to take advantage.

Phil Ormrod scored from the spot although Ashley Weeks was unlucky; getting a hand to his powerfully struck low shot.

There was very little else to report in the first half except on 39 minutes, when Symes got his toe to flick the ball across goal, but Smith managed to fumble it away.

Matt Day had a great chance to equalise on 52 minutes when he was put through on goal but the outrushing Weeks saved with his legs.

At the other end Byerley might have done better when Smith sliced a clearance to him 22 yards from the open goal but he snatched at it and missed the target.

Dovell then had Smith reaching to just hang on to his long cross, and Sean Stewart had a shot cleared off the line before the ball was finally forced away to safety.

The Bees finally scored the goal their pressure deserved on 62 minutes; Stewart producing a tremendous cross from tight against the corner flag for Dovell once more to time his run to perfection and powerfully head home.

The game then became scrappy with neither side able to take control. Sherborne pulled a goal back on 78 minutes when sub Steve Friend and then Jarman were allowed free headers 10 yards from goal, the latter's going in off the upright.

However, Bridport saw out the final minutes without problems to take the points.

Manager Trevor Senior said: "I was a little disappointed by both teams and I was expecting more from Sherborne, but neither side played a lot of football, but that's not to take anything away from our lads.

"We had a few more chances before Ryan's second goal to have been well in front and fully deserved to win."

Errors cost Ressies again

MERE TOWN 2 BRIDPORT RESERVES 1

BRIDPORT Reserves manager Robin Townsend bemoaned another lack lustre performance from his charges after their latest defeat at Mere Town.

"Once again we are lacking consistency. Since our victory over Weymouth Reserves where we played superbly, and showed what a good team we can be, our form has been mediocre.

"To be fair Mere are not a good side, but in the first half we made them look half decent with a lack lustre display."

Mere took the lead through Scott Martin in the 20th minute when he took advantage of two Bees defenders going for the same ball, allowing him space to round keeper Matty Peart.

Such was Bridport's lack of pressure that it was 40 minutes before they had a shot at goal that was well wide of the target.

After an interval where they discussed their shortcomings, Bridport came out with a more positive attitude and within three minutes of the restart Rhys Hayter had levelled the scores with a great shot from 25 yards. This inspired the Bees and they started to dictate play but couldn't find the net.

Then just after the hour an unfortunate bounce of the ball saw them behind again. Chris Herbst's back pass to Peart hit a divot and wrong footed the keeper, allowing Rhys Mendham the easy task of putting the hosts ahead.

Bridport huffed and puffed as they looked for an equaliser but they could not find one and now sit 11th in the Dorset Premier League.

"Townsend added: "We were much better in the second half, and their second goal was a bit cruel, but we deserved a draw out of it in the end."

Budmouth go nap in season's opener

ALL five Budmouth teams won their opening fixtures in the Weymouth and District Table Tennis league with the newly promoted A team enjoying a nail-biting 21-19 success at home to experienced campaigners Shipton Gorge A in Division One.

Although the evergreen Gil Roberts was in top form for the visitors as he rolled back the years, seeing off young pretenders Sam Millar and Tom Cherry; both in five close game; the two youngsters both beat Terry Whitworth and Miranda Edwardes and with Lily Cherry chipping in with two vital legs the sides were level 18-18 before the deciding doubles.

Edwardes and Whitworth will play far worse and win doubles this season, but they found the Budmouth boys in sparkling form and went down 12-14 in the fourth leg of an exhilarating match to give Budmouth A victory.

The new Budmouth E team of Snigdha Maganti, April Heasman and Erin Stow found themselves pitted against another new team of youngsters to the league from STEPS Youth Club. The experience gained by the girls in county tournaments proved crucial in a match closer than the 30-5 score line suggests.

Jon Clarke lost a tight encounter to Heasman with three of the four legs going to deuce, and in the closest game of the night Jay Adams lost 11-8 in the fifth leg to Stow. Maganti was in fine form, not dropping a leg giving the girls a fine start to their season.

Newly promoted Budmouth C were up against Preston A in Division Two where Jamie Blair played some excellent table tennis in his first two matches to beat both Roger Lovell and Derrick Shilliday 3-0.

But in his third match Blair lost to Eddie Chapman who having lost a two leg lead came back to win a tense last leg 11-5 and the match.

Moses Lewis was the star of the show for Budmouth C winning all three of his games and with James Green recovering from a 3-0 defeat by Shilliday to beat both Lovell and Chapman, they ran out 25-14 winners.

The other two Budmouth teams started their campaigns with away victories. Budmouth B were far too strong for newly promoted Colliton C thanks to the ever improving Ben Graham, Brad Burroughs and Daren Graham who will surely be title challengers come the end of the season.

Budmouth D won a tight encounter with Wyke C 23-13. The youngsters certainly did not have things their own way thanks to the wily Roy Sharp who produced a GMac style performance to beat Ethan Gear in five legs. With a maximum from Will Jolliffe and a first ever win for Eddie Knell Budmouth D closed out a very encouraging first week of the season.

Elsewhere there were wins for current Division One champions Wyke A and Land Registry who had a convincing win over newly promoted Pilgrims A to top Division One.

In Division Two Preston C and Springfield B both won, whilst another team of school youngsters, All Saints, got off to winning start in Division Three, beating the 'Golden Oldies' of Pilgrims B. Relegated Wyke D had an encouraging start to their life in Division Three with a strong win over Preston D.

Bridport Youth lift Edwards Charity Cup

Bridport Youth U18s 3
Waytown Hounds 0

BRIDPORT Youth Under 18s celebrated their first ever entry into the Edwards Charity Cup by winning the competition after they defeated Waytown Hounds at St Mary's in front of a crowd of 131 on Thursday evening.

Waytown, also making their first appearance in the final started brightly looking for an early goal, but Bridport held firm with the defence working well alongside captain Jordan Gregory.

Gradually the youngsters gained a foothold in the match with Rhys Hayter, who has already made a first team appearance for Bridport's Western League side, and Olly Woodcock exerting control of the midfield areas.

Waytown became restricted to raids on the breakaway, relying on the pace of Jon Legg to keep the Youth defence on their guard.

However a combination of good defending and poor finishing meant that the first goal didn't arrive until the 40th minute when Woodcock was on hand to slide in a rebound.

Waytown started the second half as they had the first as they busily searched for an equaliser.

Youth keeper Adam Hoskins twice needed treatment following brave saves at the feet of Waytown forwards but he was able to continue and made more good saves as chances were created at either end.

penalty

Experienced stopper Lee Cuff, in goal for Waytown, was also busy displaying some sound handling, but he was given no chance when Sam Tabner scored from the penalty spot after a foul on Jonah Ayunga.

To their credit Hounds continued to strive to get back into the game but a third goal scored from distance by Woodcock ensured that the youngsters would win the trophy which was presented to them by Cllr Geoff Ackerman the council's representative on the Bridport Football Partnership.

Waytown manager Mark Hughes graciously praised the Bridport youngsters for their performance accepting that they were the better side on the night.

Bridport Rugby

WITH ADRIAN EVERITT

Blues fade away after bright beginning

Bridport 12 East Dorset 15

AFTER a bright start Bridport finally went down in a keenly contester Dorset & Wilts Junior Vase Semi-Final watched by a large and enthusiastic crowd.

The weather was crisp and bright and so was Bridport's rugby to start with. East Dorset were thrown onto the back foot by the intensity of their hosts attacking play, and conceded a penalty within two minutes, but Rory Greening unfortunately pulled his kick wide.

However, the Blues did not let up, and won an excellent scrum against the head from which Mike Pibworth burst around the side to score. Greening missed the tricky conversion from out wide on the right.

Such was Bridport's early dominance that they were perhaps guilty of neglecting their defensive duties, and a clever kick from turnover ball put an East Dorset player into acres of space and an easy try to level the scores with the conversion missed.

As is often the way, the score transformed the visitors, and although Bridport's pack was solid in the set pieces, the visitors were winning more than their share at the breakdown.

This led to some fairly desperate defence at times from the hosts and ultimately a deliberate knock on in front of the posts.

The resulting penalty kick was a formality, and after a great start Bridport were lucky to be only three points down at half time.

The second half carried on in the same vein with Bridport defending more than they would have liked.

A superb try saving tackle from captain Dave Cutting stays in the memory, but the pressure told and East Dorset's No 10 jinked over for a try out wide which was well converted into a stiff breeze to give the visitors a 15-5 lead.

The evergreen Jason Kidd then prompted the biggest cheer of the afternoon when he wove between mesmerised defenders to score under the posts. Greening converted and at 15-12 a tense finish ensued.

Bridport strove manfully to overturn the deficit, but nothing went quite right and so it ended rather disappointingly with a narrow defeat, with Pibworth named Man of the Match.

Bridport U14 34 Honiton 15

A GREAT first game of the season saw Bridport beat Honiton. It couldn't have been a better start to the new campaign after the young Blues had already seen two teams cancel scheduled matches.

Try scorers were; Sam Roberts-Wray (2), Toby Taylor, Kieran Dunning, Guy Brazier and George Hussey. Two conversions by Joe O'Hagan added to the tally.

O'Hagan did some great positional kicking which saw Bridport's dominant forwards win good lineout ball, one of which resulted in a great forwards pushover try.

The forwards gained good possession but indiscipline cost the Blues several penalties for either being offside or high tackles.

The backs looked sharp from the outset and ran good lines to create space to outclass their opposition.

Bridport were dominant in the first half, only conceding one try but early in the second half they let Honiton take the upper hand and they scored two more.

However, Bridport fought back to regain control of the match and ran out worthy winners.

Under 9s v Weymouth

THIS was a bit of an eye opener for the under 9s, as Weymouth were out of the blocks with an intensity they had not yet experienced.

Quite a few tries were conceded before Bridport registered that they would need to raise the tempo significantly.

To their credit, they did, and by the end they were going toe-to-toe with their opponents.

Weymouth were comfortable winners, but Bridport responded with some good tries from Barney Johnson (7), Charles (2) and one each for Abbi, Lucas and Charlie Brake.

West Dorset hockey

Both sides unbeaten after solid start to the season

West Dorset Hockey Club

After their thumping of OPMA last week West Dorset had a tricky game at Bude, but despite the two hour travelling time, they secured an excellent 3-3 draw.

West Dorset A went one better, and after winning at Chard A last week, followed up with a home win over Ashmoor A.

Long trek rewarded with point

Bude 3 West Dorset 3

WEST Dorset returned from North Cornwall with a well earned point at Bude to sit second in Southern 2.

The team had a slightly different look to it, with Lee Connelly venturing up front with talisman Steve Mearing, and Alex Davies starting his first game of the season in midfield.

During the early exchanges Bude looked like they meant business, and were looking dangerous with a number of attacks, but with Mearing up front they had to be wary of the counter attack.

Eventually the West Dorset midfield managed link up with him and after a good passage of play set captain Rick Dormor with an easy opportunity.

The West Dorset defence of Jim Bowditch, Julian May, Richard Puzey and Gavin Brooking soaked up a lot of pressure as Bude looked for an equaliser, and they finally got it when a short corner was awarded for a foul and the ball was scrambled home..

West Dorset spent most of the first half with their backs to the wall, but Bude always looked vulnerable at the back, and after a strong passage of play from the visitors, Mearing took the defenders one way to allow Simon Wakely enough time to choose his spot and bury a goal in the bottom corner for the lead.

In another rare sortie into the host's half, West Dorset won a short corner, but with several players playing out of position they lost the ball, and with midfielders committed up front, allowed Bude to break away for the equaliser.

Shortly before the break, Mearing gave the visitors the lead again following a short corner to put then 3-2 ahead at the interval.

West Dorset were hopeful they could hang on for the win, but Bude attacked them incessantly after the break, and it was only some gritty defeneding that restricted Bude to the one equalising goal 15 minutes from time.

Despite Alamo-like scenes West Dorset hung on to win a well deseved and vital point.

Dormor said: "We felt at halftime it was a game we could win, but the second half proved to be 35 minutes of defend, defend, and more defending. With a few players missing, we felt a point was an achievement and the return game should be a different matter altogether."

Dormor thanked all the team for their commitment this season, and whilst praising all the players for a superb team performance, picked out Mearing for his constant work and Robin Goodfellow down the left flank for special praise.

Battling A team overcome tough Ashmore

West Dorset A 5 Ashmoor A 3

West Dorset A continued their winning start to the season with a hard fought victory at home, over a determined Ashmoor A from Exeter.

The home side found their rhythm early on, causing the visitors problems with some slick passing in the first 10 minutes but it was Ashmoor who took the lead when some dilly-dallying in the home defence gifted the visitors an easy goal.

However, the hosts drew level soon after when John Kellas flicked the ball into the net following a short corner and then took the lead midway through the first half following some individual skill from Jason Larcombe who beat a couple of players in the 'D.

Despite trailing, Ashmoor were playing the better hockey and on the stroke of halftime they brought the scores level following a short corner routine.

West Dorset still struggled to retain possession after the break, giving the ball away with alarming regularity.

But the home side always looked the more likely to score whenever they got into the attacking areas and they regained the lead when Alex Drew converted with a neat finish from close range.

Ashmoor were not giving up and they made it 3-3 following some incisive play between their forwards.

As the match entered the final stages it was the away side that looked the more likely to go on and win the game but some excellent West Dorset defending kept them at bay with Charlie Davies in fine form.

The home side were however still very much in the game, and with 10 minutes remaining they took the lead following a short corner routine; Henry Middleton's pass finding Rich Wilson at the far post to steer the ball in to make it 4-3.

With only minutes remaining a few tempers were fraying and the home side were reduced to 10 men when Wilson, who had earlier received a warning, was sin-binned for dissent after kicking the ball away.

The visitors were now pushing hard for a late equaliser but a swift break out of defence by the hosts in the dying seconds found Kellas in acres of space and he had the time and composure to draw the keeper before firing the ball into the top corner.

A relieved West Dorset A captain, Middleton said: "We weren't at our best today, too often conceding possession and lacking composure with the ball.

"Ashmoor played some good hockey and could argue they were a bit unlucky to lose, but I thought we were good up front.

"Whenever we had a sight of goal, our finishing was clinical.

"I would also like to give a special mention to James Cox who played his first match for a few years and had an impressive game in midfield."

A first for Hannah

◆ HANNAH Clifford (21) became the first member of the South West Kickboxing Club in Bridport to attain a black belt.

One of the club's first pupils when the it opened three years ago, she had to endure a five hour grading session to achieve her first dan. Mike Rowling, 2nd dan and chief instructor said: "I am immensely proud of Hannah and her success. She is my longest serving student and has worked very hard over the three years to achieve all her grades." The club also have a class in Lyme Regis run by Gareth Taylor.

Colfox continue to dominate at cross country

THE Sir John Colfox School cross-country team look to be a force to be reckoned with again this season if results of their first competition are anything to go by.

They took the long journey across the county to compete as guests in the Poole Cross Country League, always a great opportunity to test themselves against the best teams in Dorset and assess just how good they are at the moment.

The course was potentially the most difficult that coach Andy David have ever seen, with an incredibly tight start, so it was always going to be an interesting afternoon.

The first race, Year 7 boys, did not start well with just about every member of the team falling over straight away.

It was testament to the character of the runners that they got back up again and chased hard to get back in the race. In the end they did very well with Zak John the highest finisher in second place.

After seeing the boys fall, the Year 7 girls were more cautious at the start which was very sensible, Maddy Herbert was the highest place finisher in third place.

The Junior boys and girls squads are incredibly strong this year and can expect us to finish in first place for both age groups.

Sydney March, Olivia Willmore, Ceri Edwards and Dulcie Gatehouse finished 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th and for the boys Tom Crabtree finished 2nd.

The Inter races also had strong squads with Dane James and Rosie Jones leading the team home in strong positions.

Late penalty denies Terras

Redditch United 1 Weymouth 1
Calor Souther Premier - att: 283

A PENALTY five minutes from time denied Weymouth bringing home all three points from the Valley Stadium against a Redditch United team ravaged by injuries and suspensions.

However the point keeps the Terras comfortably positioned in sixth place with games in hand on all above but league leaders Poole Town.

Skipper Stewart Yetton had the ball in the net on 18 minutes but was penalised for barging Reds keeper Bradley Catlow over in the attempt.

Simeon Maye wasted the home side's best chance of the first half by blazing over, before Catlow had to turn Chris Shepherd's fierce drive over the bar. However the Terras took the lead on 35 minutes when full back Ashley Wells' pinpoint cross found Yetton at the far post to head home.

by Stuart Broom
stuart@pemedia.co.uk

It was the visitors that in the main dominated and ten minutes after the break Adam Kelly's 30 yard half volley clipped the top of the crossbar.

Jamie Spencer went close with a shot but it looked as if the Terras would hold out for three points.

However five minuted from time Chris McPhee brought down Maye as he burst into the box, and Spencer made no mistake from the penalty spot to earn the Reds a draw.

Football club support new development plans

THE possibility of a new stadium for Weymouth Football Club took a new turn last week, with the club publically supporting a new proposal for Wessex Delivery LLP to build new homes on the land surrounding and possibly including the Bob Lucas Stadium.

An application made to redevelop the site last year was rejected by West Dorset District Council, with an appeal due to be heard next month.

A new identical application has been submitted by Wessex Delivery following the withdrawal of one of the arguments by the council with reference to housing targets in the hope that they will agree, thus avoiding the cost of the appeal.

Weymouth Football Club has now backed this application following an agreement with Wessex Delivery that they will be involved in the location and design of any new stadium which will be built before the club have to vacate their current home, and that they will not be forced to move if planning permission is not granted.
